

Take the first step, become a volunteer at your local Fire Department!

•• Orleans County Fire Service Needs Volunteers ••

There are a wide variety of volunteer opportunities that will allow you to serve your community and learn valuable skills at the same time. Donating a few hours a month to your local chapter of American Red Cross or Salvation Army, participating in disaster drills and exercises, or volunteering at your local firehouse are all great ways to network, get to know the emergency response personnel in your community and lend a helping hand. There are local community service organizations that recruit and retain volunteers to deploy if a disaster occurs within the community. These volunteers are trained to assist in times of crisis and are a vital part of local response and recovery efforts. You could even work with these organizations and become a community preparedness liaison and help your community to develop, assess and implement its own preparedness initiatives.

All fire agencies are volunteer organizations, except for the Village of Medina whose staff are both paid full-time firefighters and volunteer call-men. The Village of Medina Fire Department also provides ambulance services to the Western Battalion.

COVA is the home of Orleans Training Academy (OTA), which provides emergency medical service training for first responders and community members.

Fire Service Training is delivered locally by State Fire Instructors through the Office of Fire Prevention, and is overseen by the Orleans County Emergency Management Office.
