Athens Police Department Educational Booklet Opportunity

ATHENS, TENNESSEE- May 3, 2023- The City of Athens Police Department has announced a partnership with Community Partners Group, a Tennessee based company that creates informational booklets for children and citizens. These booklets contain educational and informational resources to raise awareness in various categories ranging from child bullying, elder abuse, financial crimes, and more.

“Chief Fred Schultz and I are excited to get this program launched as it will raise awareness about protecting yourself from being a potential victim. We are working with citizens and businesses to come together and educate one another about scams that are hitting our community and ways to protect yourself and your neighbor. These books will provide another fun resource for children dealing with bullying too!” Stated Lieutenant Blake Witt.

Businesses will be contacted by a representative from Community Partners Group to contribute to the Athens Police Department’s efforts, by purchasing ads. If businesses have any questions or concerns, they are advised to contact Lieutenant Blake Witt at 423-744-2730.
