1. Well Rehabilitation – The Basics

Mr. Rash educated committee members and staff about use of radial collector wells in DMWW's raw water collection process from alluvial aquifers and the importance of regular maintenance of those wells.

2. CEO and General Manager's Comments

Mr. Corrigan reported that customer demand is high due to dry and hot conditions. River levels are going down, but there is still enough water available to avoid raising the flashboards on the Raccoon River. Nitrate concentrations in the Raccoon River are low and algae and microcystin concentrations are not significant. Microcystin concentrations are higher in the Des Moines River.

3. Public Comments - There were no comments from the public.

Meeting adjourned at 4:18 p.m.
