Environmental Tip

Did you know that for every gallon of recycled paint you use instead of new paint, you save an estimated 100 kilowatt hours of energy and avoid the release of 115 pounds of carbon dioxide into the environment?

Each year an estimated 64 million gallons of leftover paint are sent to landfills nationally. Purchasing recycled paint helps create the market demand necessary to support the collection infrastructure for managing leftover paint.

To learn more, call your local solid waste agency or environmental health department.

13th Street Infrastructure Work Begins: continued from pg 1

In partnership with the City of Everett, the Port is also constructing a new Combined Sewer Outfall on the site and preparing to remodel the Marina Sales and Repair Center (MSRC) to accommodate additional tenants.

The Port thanks visitors and boaters for their patience during this time of transition and redevelopment.

13th Street Infrastructure Work

- 2 Several weeks ago the Port of Everett
- 2 temporarily closed 13th Street, off West
- 3 Marine View Drive, to complete the
- 4 pre-loading of the road for the first
- 4 phase of Port Gardner Wharf.
- 4 This initial work kicked off a portion of
- the Phase 1 infrastructure work that
- will include raising the street level,
- constructing the roadway and
- installing the utilities within the 13th
- Street corridor and Craftsman Way
- cul-de-sac.

The roadway will include landscaping on the northern edge, and a partial sidewalk on the south side of 13th Street. Because of pending foundation work on the first phase of the project, the Port will not be landscaping the south side of 13th Street at this time. This work is expected to be complete in August 2009.

Everett Port Commission Approves Design Contract for Craftsman building

On Aug. 12, the Everett Port Commission approved a design contract with Everett-based Gary Parkinson Architects in the amount of $200,000 for the remodel and expansion of the Marine Service and Repair Center (MSRC) building. The MSRC building is located in the Port’s Craftsmen District between 10th and 13th Street and West Marine View Drive.

The remodel would include converting and expanding the current 34,000 square foot concrete building on the waterfront into a 52,000 square foot retail and repair center for the marina-related services. The building would be modified into a two-story structure, which will provide additional leasable space for Craftsmen tenants. Additionally, a 15,000 square foot office/retail addition will be added to the existing structure to serve as a buffer between the Craftsmen District and the Port Gardner Wharf development. Port Gardner Wharf is a 65-acre mixed use development that transforms a former industrial piece of property into a waterfront neighborhood.

“This is the type of facility we need to invest in to provide our Craftsmen tenants with some assurances of what their future looks like at the Port of Everett,” Port Commissioner Phil Bannan said. “We have said all along that providing adequate facilities to support our boating community is of the utmost importance. Planning for this building is a step in the right direction.”

The remodel of the MSRC building to accommodate marina tenants is expected to cost approximately $8.4 million. Approximately $750,000 in annual lease revenue will help to offset the cost of the building, Chief of Properties Larry Crawford said. The expanded area of the MSRC building is also being discussed as a potential administration office for the Port. That decision will likely occur in September.

The design and construction is expected to take approximately two years. The Port Commission will need to approve the actual construction of the building once the design work is complete.
