(Special to The Courant.)

Eastern Point, July 16.

The greatest field ever to play on the Shenecossett Links will meet on Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the annual amateur invitation tournament for the Shenecossett championship. Henry Plant of New York and Eastern Point has donated a beautiful new $2,000 cup to become the permanent property of the three times winner.

Tommy Armour of Westchester-Biltmore, former French and Scotch champion is the present title-holder and will defend it this week. He will meet some strong competition as a wonderful field will be on hand. Among those who have accepted invitations and made their entries here are Willie Hunter, England; Francis Oulmet and Jesse Gullford, Woodland; Jesse Sweetser and John G. Anderson, Siwanoy; Reggie Lewis, Henry Topping, and Tommy Armour, Westchester-Biltmore; Gardiner White Grantland Rice, New York; W. Parker Seeley, Bridgeport; Robinson Cook and H. S. Lake, Hartford; DeWitt Balch, R. K. LeBlond, Cincinnati; George H. Collett, Providence and Max Maratch, Philadelphia.

The tournament has made to last only three days to allow those who are pressed for time to get back to their home club tournaments. In size, the championship this year should outdo the Connecticut State played here two weeks ago and the famous women's tournament played on the Shenecossett links each August for the Griswold Trophy.
