

UTAH WHEAT PLAN NEARS FINAL STAGE

The campaign for wheat production control in Utah is rapidly going into its last stage of completion. Director William Peterson of the Utah extension service has reported to Washington officials several of the county and district control committees of the state have published the names, acreage and bushels of the applicants, have submitted their budgets to Washington and are now ready to have the contracts checked by Director Peterson or his representatives before they are sent for final approval to the wheat section of the agricultural adjustment administration.

Following is a copy of the report made by Director Peterson: "District No. 1, Cache-Ritch—107 applicants have been signed. The total acres have not been computed, but it is estimated that 800,000 bushels of wheat will be represented by the contracts. It is estimated that 273 farmers in this district did not sign, only three of which are classed as large growers. Organizations are completed both first and second publications of applicants have been made. Organization papers have been presented to officials at Washington.

"District No. 11—Emery-Carbon-Grand-Sun-Juan—in this district 200 applicants have been signed but the total acreage and number of bushels represented have not been reported. Work in this district started 15 days later than the others and it is expected that the completion will be about November 15.
This makes a total of 5455 applications, representing about 156,744 acres, for the state. Noncontracted acreage covers mostly small farms of less than ten acres. The work is being pushed as rapidly as is consistent. The morale is generally good and we shall complete the work as anticipated."

"District No. 2, Box Elder—868 applicants, representing 72,572 acres, or 1,842,821 bushels of wheat, have signed. Organizations are being made and the allotment committee is more than half through with its work. Papers will be sent to Washington within ten days.
"District No. 3, Weber-Davies—Applicants total 283 wheat growers, representing 3782 acres and 92,654 bushels. Organization papers and budget have been approved by Washington; first publication has been made and the contracts are being signed.
"District No. 4, Morgan-Summit-Waasatch—Organizations completed. Morgan county reports 45 applicants. Summit 85 and Waasatch 116 representing 4,000 bushels for the district. Preparations are being made for publication of applicants.
"District No. 5, Salt Lake-Tooele—Applicants total 327, representing 18,469 acres or 333,678 bushels of wheat. Organizations are completed and necessary papers have been sent to Washington. The first publication has been made and the contracts are being signed. That committee reports that contracts should be sent to headquarters within ten days.
"District No. 6, Duchesne-Tintal-Daguerre—in this district 311 applicants have been signed representing 1561 acres. This district will need more time.
"District No. 7, Elko-Hero 734 applicants, representing 14,701 acres, have signed. Organizations are now completed and papers are being sent to Washington. Publications will appear within the near future.
"District No. 8, Juab-Sagehen—In these two counties 377 applications have been signed, representing 29,773 acres, representing 325,414 bushels. The work is progressing satisfactorily.
"District 9, Millard-Beaver-Intero-Washington—Applicants totaling 216 have been signed, representing 10,158 acres. First publication has been made and the allotment committee members are rapidly completing their work.
"District No. 10, Sevier-Piute-Wayne-Carlisle-Kane, have signed 484 applicants, representing 4371 acres. Organizations are completed, papers have been forwarded to Washington. The first publication has been made and the contracts are being signed."

Talks to Girls—

Mrs. E. B. Benson of this city gave an interesting talk to the girls' club at the South Cache high school Wednesday morning. Her subject was on the World's Fair. Having spent several days at the fair Mrs. Benson was able to make her talk most interesting. Mr. Benson accompanied his wife to Hyrum and visited some of the departments while Mrs. Benson was giving her lecture. The Logan visitors pronounce the South Cache high a very fine school.

Ducks Plentiful—

James Olsen, caretaker at the Cache Valley duck club on the Bear river marshes in Bowdler county, was in Logan Thursday. Mr. Olsen says there has been good shooting on the marshes this season. Two Logan members, Irvin Sheffield and Don Edwards, went to the club on Wednesday and returned with their bag limits. They were all big ducks, mallards and pintails.

Fine Flock of Ducks—

Marion H. Henderson of west Benson, has about the prettiest flock of white ducks to be found in Cache county. His ducks more than likely resemble a pair of ordinary duck that is found on the average farm. Mr. Henderson raised a flock of thirty from a pair of breeding stock. He contemplates going into the duck and goose business on extensively scale another year. He has ample water for a swimming pond supplied from a flowing well.

of the United States be requested to exercise the authority given him and restrict the use of vegetable oils and fats for human consumption to those produced in continental United States. In this connection it should be pointed out that the present exports of animal fats and greases for food purposes just about balance the receipt of vegetable oils for food purposes from sources and our insular possessions. If such action is not taken, any reduction program is hopeless.

2. The committee recommends to the conference that any processing tax that may be levied against butter fat be levied in equal amounts against all better substitutes.

3. The committee recognizes that the present surplus numbers of dairy cows, heifers and calves in this country is the principal cause of the present surplus of dairy products and that any solution of the surplus problem must deal vigorously with the excess numbers of cattle. It therefore recommends that two steps be taken to reduce cattle numbers, these steps to be made possible by funds derived from a processing tax to be levied on all fat. (a) Immediate compulsory eradication of bovine tuberculosis. (b) Voluntary immediate testing for Bang's disease, probably handled through county organization, similar to the wheat control association.

4. The committee recognizes that the proper educational and advertising, increased consumption can be realized. It therefore urges that in view of the present consumption of dairy products being less than that required for sound nutrition and proper health, that a campaign be found by the Agricultural Adjustment administration and the dairy industry within the bounds of each state of this region to promote increased consumption of dairy products.

5. The committee recommends to the conference that it urge upon the present surplus of dairy products on dairy marketing agreements.

6. The committee recognizes in the program discussed by Dr. R. R. Graves economic soundness which is directed towards many dairy men and dairy sections of the United States. We therefore recommend its adoption to those sections. (Note: The plan chairman to appoint one man from each of the regional states to act on a permanent regional committee and to form state committees of three, two of whom shall be producers, to carry out the instructions of this conference and such matters of importance as may later arise.

7. The conference requests that congress levy a special tax of 10 cents a pound on uncolored oleomargarine to make this substitution carry somewhere near the general tax carried by butter.

8. The conference instructs the dairy products control plan.

Joseph Odell For Mayor
Karl C. Schaub For Commissioner
H. N. Christensen For Auditor

Prest. Roosevelt said: "Lets Have a New Deal"

How Do You Know What is in the Deck if you Hold the Same Hand all the Time?

Likewise how are we to get civic progress if we have the same city officials term after term. When an official becomes autocratic his program is behind him. The Mayor has had eight years in which to carry out what ideas he may have had. Isn't it time to elect new men with new ideas?

The Mayor has become autocratic. He not only tells you who should be Mayor but assumes to pick your commissioner and auditor. Our public affairs should be broader than one family.

The Mayor has shown much favoritism in the administration of the law and ordinances. The above candidates believe in the strict enforcement of all the city ordinances without favor or discrimination. If an ordinance is too strict for one man it is too strict for all and should be abolished.

The Mayor continues to inflame the public mind over the city electric light plant. And the question of the Utah Power & Light Franchise. The former is settled so far as any city official is concerned. The latter is not an issue at this time.

The records show that the franchise does not expire until 1936. The Mayor and his legal light, Attorney Fommesbeck, may insist that it terminates in 1934 and proceed to plunge the city into fruitless and expensive litigation, but even then the matter would rest in the courts until 1936, so arguments to the contrary, notwithstanding, 1936 is the year to consider this question. It certainly should not be an issue in this campaign and the Mayor's stand on this question, before it is known whether or not the power company will ask for a renewal of franchise, is autocratic, untimely and un-American.

The above candidates are experienced, capable, honest and pulling for a live, progressive, up-to-date Logan, and can be trusted to look after any and all of the affairs of the City.

It is good to house-clean once in a while. Let's have a NEW DEAL, with new men, new ideas, new viewpoints with a corresponding saving to the taxpayer.

Crookston Comments on Visit of State Industrial Commission

Editor, Cache American:

There has been very little comment upon this visit to Logan of the State Industrial Commission, and no doubt the reason for this is that we are ashamed of the attitude of our city toward the recovery program of state and nation.

As every good American knows our country has been facing a crisis more dangerous than anything at any time, and our legislature enacted law empowering our industrial commission to set minimum wages for men and women on public work.

This was necessary because too many selfish employers were taking advantage of half starved people and forcing them to work for less than a living wage. We have observed with horror the experience of other nations where the rich became too oppressive, and wholesale blood-shed was the result.

Our city has been working men this summer and have entirely ignored the ruling of our state officials regarding wages and working hours.

We had a right to expect that our City Attorney would use all his power to see that this recovery program was carried through in every detail.

But he was a sad disappointment, he connected a childish plan to finish staving the state of...

officials to come here and get the facts in the case, and let me hear about it later.

Our city dads being very anxious to create the good-will of the voters at the election this fall, have carried on a lively road building program. They have paved nearly every street in town with crushed rock and out. It is a splendid job, and out of their premises, even in the rainy season.

Logan's excuse for not complying with the wages and working hours was lame indeed; the officials one and all contended that this paving of more than 14 miles of streets was only repair work, and that the men were glad for the privilege to work at any price and there were 2 or 4 men for each job, and there was no complaining.

We all know that where a man has had no work for several months, his children under-nourished and himself looking like a scarecrow, his morale is low, and he is naturally is meek and grateful for a job and asks no questions.

The plan of the N.R.A. also the state setting minimum wages, was to create a precedent for other employers to follow, and has been pointed out by men who study no more than the words of the law, that cannot afford to pay workers a living wage, such business no more than a few weight and it is a shame to have to point at public officials as being partly to blame for low wages in Logan.

FACTS GIVEN ABOUT THE HOOPER DAM

It is stated that when water fills the Dam, there is sufficient water to supply 80,000 gallons for every person in the United States. If a billion gallons of water were drawn from this lake daily and no additional water came in, it would require twenty-one years before the lake would be empty.

120,000,000 pounds of steel will be used. The Dam is to cost $155,000,000. This is the contract price, but the government is spending many additional millions in and about the Dam outside of the contract.

A very pretty little city, called Boulder Dam, is built not far from the Dam by the government, while highways and other enterprises running up into millions are also being built.

In order to be able to furnish the government with bonds, it required six large construction companies to consolidate into one company. It also became necessary for several insurance companies to combine in order to secure the policy.

The most interesting feature of the whole works is a highline cable across the canyon running from Nevada to Arizona. This cable is so strong that it will carry 150 tons at a time. It is said that it would carry seventy-five of the new Buick sedans as far as weight goes. Just about where the Dam is under construction on the bottom of the river, four great tunnels, called diversion tunnels, are built through solid rock and carry one of these at a present diverting the entire Colorado, while the Dam is under construction. It is sufficient to carry the entire Colorado when the water is highest. These tunnels are fifty-seven to nearly four thousand feet long. Two of these tunnels carry the water of the river to the dam, in the powerhouse where the electricity is produced. There are also smaller cables crossing the river, all of which are used to carry concrete, which is dropped down to the workmen, in large containers holding a ton or more of material. It is estimated it will require from eighteen months to two years to fill the dam up to its height after its completion. Of course, all of the water cannot be retained as a certain amount of the river must be permitted to continue to flow for its normal use down through the states and to Mexico through which it passes.

The banks of the Colorado River are from twelve hundred to six thousand feet in height, largely of solid rock and extending the distance of more than five hundred miles. The water of the river is from twelve hundred to six hundred feet above the level of the back of the water for a sufficient time will be the means of clearing the water, and thus make it suitable for culinary purposes as well as the other purposes for which it will be used. It will require six years to complete the construction of the Dam by the six companies having the contract. At this time, it is said they are well ahead on their construction.

It is doubtful that there is a more interesting sight in the world at this time than the construction of this Dam. The upper one remains observing the workings and the further he inquires into the project, the more interesting it becomes.

The Union Pacific Railroad has a branch line from Las Vegas, Nevada, to Boulder City and a line extending the line over to the Dam, while splendid boulevards are built right up to the works.

Why Evade THE REAL Question?

We have been in hopes that the candidates on the opposite ticket would confine themselves to issues now before the people, but the political advertisement of October 31st is so misleading that an answer is necessary in order that the voters may not get the wrong idea when they go to cast their votes.

First they mention tax reduction, and also that it will be necessary to maintain a balanced budget, claiming that our tax levy is too high. The city records show a reduction in assessed valuation of 28.49 per cent since this administration took office; also a reduction in the city levy of 3-4 mills, making a reduction of 33 per cent less taxes paid now as compared with eight years ago—which is the same as a reduction in the levy of five mills, or a saving of $35,000.00 annually to the tax payers. The city levy would now be eleven mills if no reduction had been made in the assessed valuation.

They also claim that they are just as loyal and as strongly in favor of maintaining the City Light Plant as the mayor, and that the old "scare of Lundstrom's is a fallacy." They also asked the mayor what he thinks will become of the City Light Plant if he should die. This question is easily answered: it will be done exactly in the same way as when Mr. Odell left the post office after twenty one years of service—a man just as capable stepped in and took his place. So also will a man just as capable take Mayor Lundstrom's place.

Will these three candidates please tell the public where they have shown their loyalty to the City Plant? We fail to find in the struggle with the power trust, when our plant was in danger, that any of these candidates, either in words or deeds, did one single thing to fight the enemies of the city plant. We challenge this statement and ask for proofs. Now that the battle is getting less fierce and the smoke is cleared away, they come forward boldly and announce their loyalty to the city plant. The only loyalty as far as we can find is that they are patrons of the city plant and are enjoying a rate of forty per cent less than the power company would have charged had the plant been sold.

These candidates also claim that the franchise is not the issue in this campaign and are evading this important question by stating that it is a highly controversial question whether the franchise expires in 1934 or 1936, notwithstanding that our ordinances plainly state that 1934 is the time when the franchise shall expire. Now, why evade the issue? Tell the voters where you stand on this important question—whether it comes up in 1934 or 1936—inasmuch as the commissioner will be elected for the next four years.

You know nothing of the battle this administration has fought to protect our plant and we ask that before election you make a statement as to where you stand on this, the most and only important issue, before the voters in this election.

You also state that "Mayor Lundstrom is continually flouting this franchise big bear to frighten the voters and perpetuate himself in control of the city." We feel that this statement is an insult to the intelligence of the people of Logan City—that the voters are being frightened to vote for the present administration. Had this administration not handled the city affairs in a business-like manner the people would have been the first to realize it. There has been an opportunity on three different occasions for the voters to change the Administration had they so expressed themselves at the polls; but the voters know what the present Administration has accomplished, and they also know that Logan City is half a million dollars better off than it was eight years ago; even if these candidates have become so blighted that they are unable to SEE THE LIGHT.

We say too, Gentlemen, as Lincoln said and with emphasis, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

"Are you sure you love me, George?"
"Not quite, but I want to find out if you love me before I spend any more on you."

"What do you mean?"
"My daughter tells me that her husband says their cook's biscuits aren't nearly as good as his mother's cook used to make."

SNAPPY

Mrs. A.—Tom, our physician wants to send me to a summer resort for the week.
Mr. A.—Well, I don't blame him.

FATAL BLOW

"Then the Browns have parted! I thought it was a case of two hearts that beat as one."
"Their hearts may have beat as one, but she couldn't accommodate herself to his dancing step."

CASH IN SIGHT

BRAND-NEW ALIBI

"Are the banking regulations responsible in part for customer's slowness in paying bills? Wareham merchants are asking. For what? Because a customer came to a Wareham store and apologized for not settling his account. His alibi was new.
"I'll pay pretty soon," he promised, "as soon as the bill gets bigger. It costs so much now to make out checks that I hate to pay out money to the government for small amounts when I'm nicked just as much for a bigger sum."—Brookton Enterprise.

Truly Terrible

"You must have had a terrible experience, with no food to eat and mosquitoes swarming round you," said a sympathetic friend to a man who had been cast away upon a tropical island.
"I had a terrible experience," the seaman acknowledged. "My case was worse than that of the man who wrote 'Water, water everywhere, nor any drop to drink.' It was water, bites everywhere, nor any bite to eat."
"What do you think of the dog show?"
"I didn't see a single frock I liked."

REGULAR DEBATE

The conductor and a brakeman on a Montana railroad differ as to the proper pronunciation of the name Eureka. Passengers are often startled upon arrival at this station to hear the conductor yell:
"You're a liar! You're a liar!"
Then from the brakeman at the other end comes the cry:
"You really are. You really are."
—Hongkong, South China Morning Post.

Wolf! Wolf!
"I see," remarked Mrs. Grouch, looking up from the paper, "that fellow who married the lady exchange says he is going to prove he can get along without any woman."
"Huh?" growled her husband. "If he wants to show how smart he is, let him prove he can get along with one. Any fool can get along without one."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

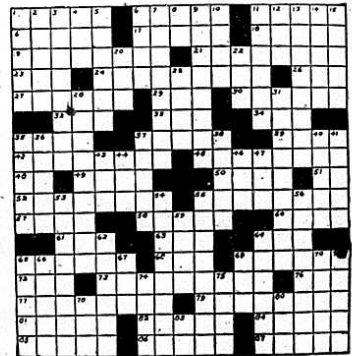

GATHERING IT IN

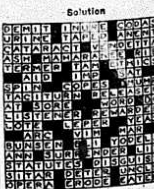

"How do you find business?"
"I don't find it. I pay a man to go out and find it for me."

Leadership In The American Home

LEADERSHIP IN THE AMERICAN HOME—Whether it be the cottage sheltered by the pretensions of the church steeple, or the pretentious mansion on far-reaching acreage. There is no greater power than the unity of an American family gathered around a glowing hearth. It is there that dreams are born—plans made—and those dreams brought to materialization.

We are leaders all, because we are home lovers, and in our homes lies the destiny of the future.

Let us, today, step forth from our thresholds, and say with gratitude and conviction—"Ours is a great nation."

What makes a nation great? The bankers who finance its enterprises? The industrialists who develop its resources? Diplomats who weave its interests through the great pattern of the world?

The answer is a paradox. "Yes, all of these—yet none of these." For what need we have of banks . . . or business . . . documents . . . or ships to cross the sea—without that great multitude known to all nations as—the American people?

Every American, in every American home, makes this nation great—by the might of muscle with which he builds for his family's future—The idealism in his heart—and the faith in his soul.

Fredrick P. Champ

Coach E. L. (Dick) Romney

TO A MAN—His team admires him—his college respects him—Coach Romney has made men of boys, taught them the game of fair play, has sent them on into the world with a knowledge first attained—in his family—and you lose, do go gallantly. A keen knowledge of clean sports is responsible for his success as a coach and trainer of men.

Chief of Fire Dept.

Men may erect splendid buildings that are veritable monuments to human progress and attainment yet those achievements are as thought if protection against the ravages of the demon fire is lacking. Providing safe-guarding for the homes and professions of men of Cache County is a most important duty.

Mr. Champ was born in Salt Lake City, June 4, 1896. Received part of his education at the Utah Agricultural College. From there he went to the Colorado Preparatory School and finished his well rounded training at Harvard University. Graduating with a degree in architecture.

Returning to Logan, Mr. Champ engaged in banking and financial enterprises with a great deal of success. He has used his natural ability to further the interests of those who have shown faith in him and his institution. The best proof of that is seen in the fact that his banking institution has not faltered when others seemingly are unable have crumbled, leaving a debris of want, hunger, and life's necessities lost.

It seems only natural that a man of his ability should be chosen as an executive officer of the following firms: Utah Mortgage Loan Corporation, Morning Mail Company, Cache Valley Building Company. He is also a board member of the Utah State Agricultural College, San Francisco District Committee for the National Recovery Administration, Utah State Welfare and Emergency Relief Committee, and Agricultural Com-

ARE WOMEN POOR SPORTS?

Gains laws according to Miss Nevada Strayer, of Baker, Ore., are being evaded every year by thousands of skirted anglers. She told the state's commission that they are fishing with their husbands or male relatives and think nothing of having no license. She says that women's "sportsmen's clubs" are organized to end such law evasion.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Manuscript of the Gettysburg Address in Lincoln's Own Hand

It was just 70 years ago that Abraham Lincoln, standing on the battlefield of Gettysburg, made a speech of exactly 272 words that has been called "the English language as spoken." And that speech is the most important document in our history.

"Are you interested in a war on crime?" "Of course," answered Senator Sargum. "But I'm not in favor of calling it anything so dignified as a war. It is a case where all good citizens should get together and conduct a plain ordinary rattlesnake fight."

Cache American Same As Letter from Home

From Los Angeles, California, we have just received an interesting letter from George H. Thomas, formerly of Logan. Mr. Thomas says that our cheery paper comes to him promptly and that it is ever welcome as it serves as a letter from home.

In the letter is a reference to Dr. Otto J. Monson, a former resident of Richmond, which will be read with interest by former acquaintances of Dr. Monson.

PLEASANT MEMORIES OF CACHE VALLEY FRIENDS.

Among the many, I recall Dr. Otto J. Monson as a lad in Richmond. I knew him as a musical enthusiast and later as chorister for the state in which he resided.

Later, as Dr. Monson at Ocean Falls, as president of the state. There a very dear close friend until his demise a short time ago in the prime of a useful life. In 1923 he and his good wife, formerly one of the popular Burnhams of Richmond, drove around early Christmas morning and placed a bunch of carnations on the mantel of our door. In appreciation of this pleasant incident I wrote the following verses.

CARNATIONS

It was a very happy Christmas
 Mine and I had only three.
 Very early in the morning
 Someone left a gift for me.
 Not a costly glistening jewel,
 Something which I prized for
 Just a bunch of sweet Carnations,
 On the handle of my door.

The sun arose in splendor,
 Shined its rays over all the earth.
 On the morning of Christmas
 The Messiah's lovely birth.
 As my cup of joy was filling
 Soon I found its running o'er
 When I saw those sweet Carnations
 On the handle of my door.

As I stood beside the ocean,
 Gazing on the trackless sea,
 Saw the waves in rhythmic motion
 Dance and play in merry glee.
 Looking back in retrospection
 Saw a lad, I knew of yore,
 Must be he, who placed carnations
 On the handle of my door.

It is nice to be remembered,
 By a friend of by-gone days.
 It is sweet to tell the story,
 Joy to sing the Christmas lays.
 It is well to scatter sunshine,
 On the rich as well as poor.
 Nice to place some sweet carnations
 On the handle of the door.

So I thank my heavenly father,
 For my happiness and joy,
 Thank him for those pretty flowers
 Thank him for that dear old boy.

Now a man, a friend, a brother,
 Whom I know is to adore,
 Thank him for those sweet carnations,
 On the handle of my door.

Extension Service Plans Courses for Utah Farmers

A ten-day training course for farm leaders from the various counties of the state is the latest plan of the Extension Service of the Utah State Agricultural College. Director William Peterson has announced.

The dates set for this short course include the period from December 5 to 15, at a time when the farm work is slack. Intensive training will be conducted at the state college in forage, crops, poultry, and farm machinery.

"More actual demonstration teaching by the farmers and to the farmers is necessary in the solving of our agricultural problems as they present themselves," said Director Peterson in commenting on the training course.

"The leaders attending the short course will be given as intensive instruction as time will permit during the 10 days they will attend the courses. They will be given an opportunity for five hours a day to put into actual practice the instructions of experts, and they will be given demonstrational responsibility which will better fit them to train others when they return to their respective counties."

Special lectures, dealing with problems which are actually before the farmers at the present time, will be given each day. The delegates will be allowed to choose the phase of the class work they desire, either farm machinery, crops or poultry and spend at least five hours a day for the entire period under trained supervision in this chosen field. Director Peterson said.

May Reface Building—

Senator Wm. H. King and Congressman Al Murdoch encouraged the Chamber of Commerce that they have contacted the prominent supervising architect, Mr. Whitmore, in relation to replacing the old brick in the present Federal Building in Logan. They state that Mr. Whitmore is sympathetic to the idea and will make a careful investigation with a view of complying with the request.

BARGER AND HAWKESWOOD TO TANGLE

Kid Barger and Harold Hawkeswood, two of the outstanding slow artists of this valley, have been matched to battle it out for the prize of $100. The fight will be held on November 23, according to Dutch Talbot of Richmond. Talbot has been sparing for a long time to get these boys together and at last he has been able to get it done while that Hawkeswood man, to consent to the match. Some of the fans have left a note while that Hawkeswood has been afraid to meet the Treasurer youth. The fact that this manager consent to the match, would discredit, such a bold-brave has been the under-dog as far as weight is concerned. Hawkeswood has agreed to make 125 pounds and this is not out of the weight limit of Barger who has at times entered the ring as heavy as 165 pounds.

The fight will be over the round route and will be staged in the Isis theatre at Preston. Preston chamber of commerce is sponsoring the fight and has given guarantee of one hundred fifty dollars for the Hawkeswood appearance. No doubt the fight will be given a similar guarantee. This makes it appear that the fans have been waiting for just such a fight and will be glad to pay the price to see these boys in action.

Both Hawkeswood and Barger are good mixers. Barger could be classed as the boxer and Hawkeswood as the slugger. Should one of his long swings on Barger's chin, some of the faithful believe it would be certain. The cleverness of Barger should be such to avoid such a calamity.

Both Barger and Hawkeswood have been in demand in various sections. Barger has entertained many a crowd in Ogden and Boise as well as other places. He has had a real entertainment. He has battled some of the best middleweights in the country and has always made a good showing. Barger is not a fighter of the type to be able to bow them over. Local fight fans will no doubt give this fight their hearty support.

1934 NASH

EVERYBODY expected Nash to do something better in designing the 1934 Nash—and sure enough, the new Nash "Speedstream" style simply sparkles with grace, smartness and good taste.

And everybody expected Nash to step out and go the limit in making its 1934 models crowning examples of motoring luxury.

But who would have thought it possible for Nash or any manufacturer to go so far as to power the lowest-priced models of a new line like the higher-priced models, with Twin Ignition valve in-head motors?

That's exactly what Nash has done—in spite of rising manufacturing costs—in spite of the greater cost of building a Twin Ignition valve-in-head motor—and in spite of the fact that Twin Ignition never before has been engineered into a car selling under $1200!

There's almost a magic difference between a motor car with Twin Ignition and one without it. You can feel the difference in smoothness—and tests reveal the big difference of 22% more power, 5 more miles an hour top speed and 2 more miles to a gallon of gasoline!

Nash for 1934 has just about everything—including a new improved type of built-in draftless ventilation, providing unobstructed vision—a new synchro-shift transmission with all gears quiet at all speeds—and a new incidental starter—everything to give Nash the edge in any comparison. See Nash before you say "Yes" in deciding on any new car.

PROCESSING TAX EFFECTS BREEDS PRICES

Discusses Bread Prices

While wheat farmers in the United States stand to benefit greatly as a result of the wheat program of the Agricultural Administration, the effect on bread prices paid by the individual consumer is almost negligible.

Head prices according to statistics compiled by the Comptroller of the Administration, one from cents a pound in February to 7.9 cents on September 26. But of this 15-cent increase, only a half cent was due to the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel levied on wheat.

Commenting on the effect of the program on the price of bread, the director of the production division, said: "While the consumer has had to pay one-half cent more for a pound of bread because of the wheat processing tax, what does it mean to the farmer? It means millions of dollars, increased income for hard-pressed farmers.

Why Wait for George to Spend It? Legend tells us of a Chinese ruler who decreed that at a given moment each and every one of his subjects should yell at his loud.

Today too many of us are waiting for George to spend it. I am no magician despite my claim that a thing can be made larger by taking away a part of it.

The man who spends one dollar in ten of his making business better will find the nine worth more than the ten as value rises. Money achievement is ever a matter of individual and cooperative action.

While we are waiting for the release of frozen funds to start a buying wave, nineteen out of every twenty dollars in 1933 have been free to spend as we will $3,695,974,000 are on deposit. This is 25 per cent more money than we had in all our banks when we went into the World War to help save those across the sea.

Depressions will linger if we will wait out of income instead of out of capital—and we can't spend what we don't have. The public should not sign with anyone and spend none of its capital. The cow without pasture can give no milk. An industry without sales can give no goods.

Let's take a look at the Blue Eagle. We see in its grasp the crooked industry and evil. The devil is conspicuous by its absence. Let's remember this whenever we do business with our fellow men.

STURDAY FOOTBALL GAME SHOULD ATTRACT RECORD ATTENDANCE TO LOGAN

Logan vaudeville fans have a real treat in store this evening when Utah Aggie organizations present their annual Homecoming views. The vaudeville is always masterpiece of clever stunts, graceful dancing and superb dramatics and this year's program promises to surpass those of other years.

The vaudeville is always masterpiece of clever stunts, graceful dancing and superb dramatics and this year's program promises to surpass those of other years. A regular Capitol movie and admission to the student body dance following the show are also included with the price of the ticket.

This evening's entertainment will be an antiphonal prelude to the elaborate Homecoming plans for Saturday. From the big parade with its numerous bands to the Harvard Ball at night the day is scheduled to be the biggest Homecoming celebration ever held at the Aggie school.

The original herdscopes, an established line of abundance, tips and moveable balls of various colors, could not easily be duplicated here. A smaller and simpler one, therefore, was devised, so that each member of the breeding school classes may now have one for individual use.

Better Range Management Benefits

Good range management is vital to maintenance of the livestock industry of Nevada. By leading the way in range practices and large scale experiments on the national forests of the state, the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture is offering the stock raiser examples of constant range improvement.

Nevada has millions of acres adapted to range for cattle and sheep. The range is almost entirely within the state and others that extend within its boundaries. Forestry practices in range management are studied and frequently adapted.

Forty years ago many of the grazing lands of the West had already become overstocked and begun to deteriorate. In 1905, when the Forest Service was organized as a part of the Department of Agriculture, it undertook to improve range management on the national forests.

Excessive grazing may go so far as to destroy most of the vegetation, turning the range soil into dust and packing the subsoil, and there is nothing to check rapid run-off of water, and erosion and floods follow the rains. Many fine ranges have been ruined by overgrazing.

Range-management methods developed by the Forest Service require not only the right number of stock but also their proper distribution over the area, through fencing, herding, salting, and watering. A system of deferred rotation grazing has been developed by the Forest Service to maintain the range by permitting the range to rest and recover.

Everyone Must Help

Not another winter like the last! That was the pledge of the new Administration when it came into office.

But government alone can't do it all. We can spend money for relief—and we are, but there is never enough. We can build public works—but there comes an end to that, and the public treasury is not bottomless.

And this doesn't mean charity, vital as that is. The best kind of relief is that which spends money and provides jobs on projects which are permanently valuable, and gives those who pay the bill something really needed.

A dollar spent for a new house, or to repair an old one, does double duty. An extremely large share of it goes directly to labor in your own town.

Remember that—and remember too that you have a selfish interest in building and repairing while prices are still in the economic basement.

War Will Be Waged By Fish On Mosquitos

Balt Lake City—Mosquito control in Salt Lake City and Utah will not be the big problem to contend with this winter.

The acclimatization of this semi-tropical fish to the Utah habitat has been the object of a special mosquito study by Don M. Rice, instructor of zoology at the University of Utah.

ELIMINATION: Most of us find the problem of elimination more or less difficult, and I presume that much more thought is devoted to the matter of getting something to eat than to the matter of getting rid of the surplus or waste matter that we have eaten, and yet the processes are of equal importance. I recently told you from the standpoint of evacuation of the bowels. There are other methods of elimination, however, of even greater importance. The entire surface of the body is covered with millions of tiny pores which are constantly at work eliminating waste matter. As these openings are all open, they are prevented from performing their duties by the skin. If the entire body were covered with a solid film, the work of these tiny organs of elimination would cease, and what now passes off in both visible and invisible quantities would be retained, and as the lungs and kidneys could not get rid of their load, the poison thus retained would soon cause a fatal ending.

The liver, kidneys, lungs and skin are all active in the work of elimination, and it is not doing its duty, trouble follows. Keep the skin active by its means. If you do not exercise freely under heat or active exercise, you would at once investigate and learn the reason for it. The proper means for putting the skin into normal health as quickly as possible.

On page 263 of the Home Health Club Volume 1, you will find full and careful directions for the preparation of a simple home made ointment which will soothe your own kitchen that will protect the skin in perfect health. It is off hand, and the book is cheerfully left you assist it in a letter.

There are a vast number of people whose systems are literally filled with waste and surplus matter. They are not sick enough to go to bed or call a doctor, but they are not well, and in their time wholly efficient, not at their best, don't enjoy their food, don't enjoy their life, and their complexion is muddy or the face is covered with pimples or the skin at the bottom of ninety per cent of these cases, especially in the case of women and girls. One of the first duties of a woman is to keep her face clear and bright, and a bright, smiling expression is a sign of good health.

It is no matter what the features may be. She cannot have a perfect complexion without perfect elimination and neither can she have the bright cheerfulness and happy look of health.

I wish you could read just a few of the scores and scores of letters I receive from men and women telling of the vast improvement in their features and looks after following the Home Health Club methods of clean living, which means attention to the inside as well as outside. Don't you want to look well and to be well?

DEAR DOCTOR: What treatment do you advise in severe case of the "Blues" or melancholia of a young man about thirty years of age, unmarried, who drank some and smoked quite heavily up to the first of the year. About that time he began worrying a good deal over business and private matters caused by the so-called depression. For the past month he has been in a very bad state. He has no energy, mental or physical, and nothing seems to interest him. His appetite is poor, bowels move regularly and he sleeps pretty good, but wakes up with a dread of something and does not seem to refresh him and he seems unable to get his mind off anything but his condition. Since getting this feeling he has quit drinking and smokes very seldom and has been taking good care of himself, but seems unable to get back to his old self. He is becoming alarmed over his condition.

ANSWER: Melancholia is a diseased condition of the mind. It is held to be a form of insanity, though, of course, those who are subject to what is known as the blues, cannot be considered insane. Such a mental disorder, which should be treated as such, can only by persistent efforts such cases can be entirely cured. He would be for your friend to go away from home and business and stay a few months at a Naamic Cure Sanitarium where he would receive the splendid care and encouragement which, I believe, would do more than anything else prove that such a case is not incurable. Upon the surroundings, the right kind of diet, proper exercise and hygienic measures in general, there is no medicine to be depended upon to cure ailments of that kind, though many injurious drugs are often prescribed. The more splendid care and encouragement condition will become. In some cases a few months at a country club where there is plenty of outdoor sport will benefit a good deal. A friend of mine was habitually subject to spells of the blues. He went with him once on a two weeks trip up in the North-west hunting and the blues soon disappeared. All kinds of outdoor sports are recommended, such as fishing, golfing, anything that will interest him and make him forget about himself and imaginary troubles.

Possibly the fact that he suddenly quit drinking and smoking may have something to do with melancholia is the most frequently used form of insanity. As long as the patient do not evince suicidal tendencies, they may be kept with friends or relatives. It is of but little use to try to argue them out of their melancholy thoughts. Friends are recommended to laugh at their expressions, but try to turn their thoughts upon other subjects. Remember that the greatest kindness must be shown all such sufferers. Frequent bathing, nourishing and easily digested food, fresh air in abundance, daily recitations of the bible are other important factors in overcoming melancholia.

Economic Highlights Happenings That Affect the Dispersed, Divided Classes and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inevitable From Legal Welfare

It is now expected that the New Year will see the approval of all the industrial codes. That will mean that the National Recovery Administration has completed its first great task. At this writing, 59 codes have been approved. One hundred thirty seven are being reviewed. Forty-two are scheduled for early hearings. By the time this is read the retail trade will be one of the most difficult, which have been approved unless an unlooked for problem crops up. Most interesting feature of this code is that it will eliminate selling a possibly less than inventory code, a practice which has been prevalent, especially among large stores, which is in the minds and hearts of farmers, who believe the AAA has failed to aid them in carrying their purchasing power, in many instances, go sharply down while other prices went sharply up. The Administration is frankly worried as the farm strike movement grows, makes more farmers more kinds of products, more states. Mr. Heron, who can be both a fire eater and a fire maker,

BUY NOT, EAT NOT By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Somehow, we have to go against our training or go broke. Sometimes what we have always believed to be a virtue of virtuous conduct proves fatal in practice. For instance, we have grown up in the belief, fostered by our parents and teachers and endorsed by our government, that we have no right to take or use the property of another person without his consent, but if the property in question happens to be a blackjack that the other person is about to bring down on my head I shall have a better chance of surviving if I perceive, in time, the wisdom of clinging unflinchingly to old convictions. That is, there are times of emergency when clinging to an old conviction will be ruinous. Let us consider the present time in relation to our old conviction of abstaining from alcohol.

People of pioneer stock are often spoken of as the "backbone of the country," and probably they are. Pioneers are thrifty or they don't survive. If the wood pile is used too freely in the winter, it may not last through the winter, and the Middle child learned thrift at its grand-mother's knee. Moreover, we've been taught for several generations that it isn't what a man eats that counts and takes care of him as his mother's knee. Moreover, we've been taught for several generations that it isn't what a man eats that counts and takes care of him as his mother's knee. Moreover, we've been taught for several generations that it isn't what a man eats that counts and takes care of him as his mother's knee.

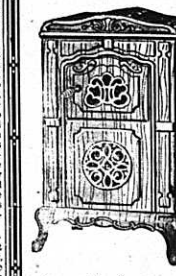

Moreover, the government asks us to spend at a time when the Federal government itself, as well as our State, county and city governments, are taking heavily from us in taxes and in what is lessening our power to spend. Worse still, our government, through the N.R.A., asks us to spend at a moment of great financial uncertainty in our lives, at a moment when we don't know when we're emerging from the depression or going deeper into it, and when we aren't sure whether we're less afraid of the future than we were a year ago, or more so. The curious thing about this government's exhortation to us to spend is that the exhorter knows how we feel and how we're situated; they know our old convictions and they see some exhorter ask us to buy, buy, buy!

What's the answer? Money is a means of trade. If you had a cord of wood and no food, and your neighbor had a collar full of potatoes and no food, and if neither of you were willing to trade, he'd have raw potatoes to eat but you'd starve to death. Thrift is indeed a virtue; but this is a time of emergency during which it's necessary to buy goods so that somebody'll have money enough to pay for what we produce. It's hard for us to get rich by washing one another's shirts, it's certainly unwise to make a living by washing one another's shirts. It seems wise to live by spending than to perish by saving.

practicing mistake. When General Johnson excluded two reporters from his conference, because of their writing about N.R.A., he was doing the unprecedented. Then he paid his host to accept by advancing the licensing system for papers, and just about every newspaper editor in the country ran for his type writer. On top of that, an NRA representative in the South called on the editor of a medium-sized paper, told him that if he didn't stop making unfriendly comment on NRA labor provisions, he'd find himself in trouble. The editor spoke up in his paper and found the whole press, including the most zealous supporters of the Roosevelt program, behind him. This threatened press censorship is vitally important, and sparks are going to fly when it really comes to a head.

General belief is that Mr. Roosevelt is heavily in favor of a free trade in the country, but his type press—that his mistake is in not holding tight enough rein on some of his assistants.

One fine afternoon back in 1913 an obscure prince was shot in the equally obscure city of Sarajevo. To most of the world the event simply didn't matter. It was scarcely heard and nothing more. Then arms began mobilizing. Lights burned late in charcoaled. The British Navy set out for maneuvers several weeks ahead of the normal time. And the greatest war in history was underway.

Matters are not especially different in Europe now. Hitler's withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the disarmament conference, has sent the greatest scare since those 1913 times through premiers and emperors, congress and parliament. The Hitler position is that the Versailles treaty is unworkable—that the refusal to meet Germany with an equal basis so far as armaments, especially arms, concerned, thrusts the blame onto the other powers and that whatever happens will be their fault. That is, the other powers is more vague than that, and more confused. But they definitely fear Germany. Theoretically she has no arms; practically she has a stockpile of picked men in her army. Practically she has a stockpile of picked men in her army. Practically she has a stockpile of picked men in her army. Practically she has a stockpile of picked men in her army.

Whole future of the Administration farm program is at stake and strongest efforts will be given to bringing order from chaos.

In this day and time people turn instinctively to the advertisements in the newspapers to find what they want and where to buy it.

Citizens Of Cache All Eligible

Announcement was made today by managing director Wallace A. Coates that the casting of the next Little Theatre play, "Counselor-At-Law" will begin the latter part of this week. Citizens of Cache Valley are all eligible for consideration in the parts offered in the play. No previous experience is required. Counselor-At-Law carries a most unusual cast of thirty people all of whom have speaking parts. In addition to the adult parts there are roles for a young boy and a young girl. There are no moon scenes nor extras in the play; probably one of the best opportunities afforded community people interested in acting is provided in this production. Those interested may communicate with Mr. Coates at once.

Counselor-At-Law is one of Elmer Rice's latest plays and was one of the most outstanding of the successes of the 1922 season. A telegraph release of the play was received only yesterday, immediately upon receipt of official permission from the owners of the play in New York. The production will be the first this play has received anywhere nearer than Los Angeles.

The play is an extremely live and tense one and provides a most startling cross section in the life of George Simons, outstanding New York attorney. Due to the fast moving drama, and realism as only Elmer Rice can write all mark this exceptional play.

Mr. Coates is directing Counselor-At-Law, the eighth play, in his own two years ago. He will be remembered for his presentation of "Death Takes a Holiday," "Shin Up," "Outward Bound," "Holiday," "The Poor Nut" and others. Mr. Coates was recently reappointed managing director of the Little Theatre.

According to present staging plans tentatively presented, the casting for Counselor-At-Law will call for some of the most unusual staging seen in local production. The play is to be presented in an impressionistic style including split second shifts of scenes from the reception room to the private office of George Simons. The Little Theatre's recent purchase of a new amount of entirely new Theatre's recent purchase of a suit much to the production.

County Leaders Enjoy Training Conference

Evelyn Griffin of Preston, Mrs. Will Jones of Orderville, Mrs. Mattie Jensen of Smithfield, and Mrs. Laura Shumway of Logan, are the delegates from this county to the homemakers' conference, since held in session at the Utah State Agricultural College, under the direction of the Extension Service.

These leaders are receiving intensive training in foods and nutrition, clothing, home management and child welfare during the two-week period. In addition special lectures are provided for diversion and educational value, and time for relaxation and entertainment is part of the daily program.

According to Mrs. Rena B. Maywood, assistant director for home economics, who is in charge of the conference, the delegates are comfortable, happy, enthusiastic about their work, and glad of the opportunity to attend college. The majority of them are mothers with families and they have other duties as well, but the call of leadership for them has not been unheeded. Of course they have their difficulties; some of them are homestead, when they have time to think about their own and the children, but in the main, they are a cooperative, industrious, successful group of homemakers.

The delegates are furnished, being accommodated by the college, with their own blankets have been provided through the courtesy of the military department and the classes are held on the campus. Some of the leaders are having their first touch of barracks life, and the regulation O.D. all-wool blankets, all of which, they say, give them a better understanding of what Armistice Day means.

Wm. L. Skidmore Laid At Rest At Richmond

Richmond—Funeral services were held in Richmond tabernacle Tuesday afternoon for William L. Skidmore, pioneer of Utah and Richmond and a leader in his community both in church and civic affairs. Bishop Ray C. Lewis was in charge of the services. Relatives and friends gathered in large numbers to pay a final tribute to the memory of this good man. The speakers included Apostle Melvin J. Ballant, who brought encouragement and sympathy to the family from the general church authorities; B. F. Grant, manager of the Deseret News, who had been a life long friend of deceased; O. A. Boggs, who was formerly a member of the Benson stake presidency; Bishop William Anderson and closing remarks by Bishop Lewis. The ward choir rendered the usual numbers under the direction of G. Ella Doy; a vocal solo was rendered by Dean Hale of Logan with Mrs. Bertha Pomer accompanist; vocal duet by Mrs. Florence Lewis and Mrs. Rebecca Lewis with Mrs. Adonia Traveler, accompanist. Prayers were offered by H. Lester Raby, former bishop of Cove and C. E. Harris. The grave at the Richmond cemetery was dedicated by E. W. Hendricks.

U. S. Zones Nation For Assignment Of 4,000,000 Jobs

WASHINGTON—Secretary Ickes today characterized the new $400,000,000 civil works fund a means for holding back the line of unemployment this winter until major public works administration can get fully under way. Addressing the governors of 26 states, the mayor of cities and more than 200 other officials, gathered at a public convention, he told of plans aimed to hire 4,000,000 men until Feb. 1, through allotment under the $400,000,000 fund. Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administration director, had urged that relief funds be used to pay actual wages for work done in addition to this sum. Officials crowded in one of the main dining rooms of the Hotel Mayflower, applauded both Ickes and Hopkins. They arranged to meet with President Roosevelt at the White House in the late afternoon. "We intend to go through with this regardless," Hopkins told the officials. "I do not believe that anyone will endeavor to inject politics or personal gain into the plan. We do not intend to tolerate such." Hopkins set minimum wages under his fund for three subdivisions of the country. These provide that unskilled labor in the southern zone shall be paid not less than forty cents, with a forty five cent minimum in the northern zone and fifty cents in the north. Skilled labor which may be necessary to carry out the project will be paid at an hour in the southern zone; $1.10 in the central zone and $2.20 in the northern zone. For purposes of determining wages, Hopkins, the civil works administrator, outlined the three zones.

Keeping Tab On Our Neighbors

Mac's Modern Market
The chief requisite to good meat is proper refrigeration. If you don't believe this just take a peek into Mac's ice-box and then try his meat! Whether it be a tender T-bone, a savory pot roast, a rack of lamb, real cutlets or an order of common frankfurters, that same delicious flavor is there, it has been properly prepared and thoroughly refrigerated. Furthermore, Mac takes pride in his craft. He loves to please. When he takes down a side of beef and carves out a steak with the delicate ease of a surgeon it looks as darned good that you can hardly wait to get home and cook it.

Expert Views Hope For Cattle Feeders

By E. J. MAYNARD, Dean of the School of Agriculture.

The present national cattle picture, as outlined by J. K. Wallace, senior marketing specialist of the Bureau of Markets, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will interest farmers and cattlemen of Utah.

As far as feed produced on farms is concerned, Utah, with about 80 per cent of a normal supply, is at present in a favorable position as compared with the nation as a whole, yet the alarming spectacle of the winter range which is in very poor condition requires that much of this feed be conserved for range livestock, as practically three-fourths of the livestock feed of the state is ordinarily derived from its grazing resources.

to greater profit opportunities for cattle feeders who take advantage of the present low prices for feeder cattle than for several years as a result of this situation affecting Pacific coast future supplies.

The present outlook for heavy liquidation during the next six days would indicate the wisdom of holding cattle as long as possible where feed is available and the cattle will not lose in competition.

Prepare Now For Your 1934 Garden

Garden success depends upon the following four basic factors: (1) a favorable climate, (2) good soil, (3) good seed and (4) proper culture. Climate is, of course, the most important, but since man cannot modify it to any appreciable degree, he must confine his efforts to soil, seed, and culture. It is probably incorrect to say that either of these is more important than the other, but if there be a difference, it is in favor of the soil. Many home gardeners fail to sense the importance of the soil and its treatment. Commercial gardeners also frequently neglect their soil, either from lack of information or through indifference. Because of its extreme importance soil requires almost continuous consideration and attention. The proper treatment of soil in the home garden is as important as spring treatment.

The crop-producing power of a soil is known as soil fertility. Soil fertility depends upon the actual quantity of plant-food elements in the soil and its ability to supply moisture to the plant. Both are more or less dependent upon the physical condition of the soil; whether it is loose and friable or whether it is baked or cloddy. Sandy soils are naturally friable, but are likely to be low in moisture retentiveness and in plant-food. On the other hand, silt and clay soils have good moisture retentiveness and are naturally fertile but may be in poor physical condition. Both types of soil can be improved by the addition of organic matter, such as barnyard manure, leaves, and other organic debris. On most soil types, organic matter can be applied to the best advantage during the fall.

From the standpoint of crop production, organic matter is an absolutely essential constituent of a soil. Its application supplies the soil with necessary plant-food. It also provides the great myriads of beneficial soil organisms which are necessary for the soil to perform their activities. In addition to these functions, it becomes incorporated with particles of rock waste, thus improving the physical condition and increasing the moisture-holding property of the soil. All are familiar with the black color of the black loam soils. The black color in most cases is due to the presence of large quantities of organic matter which undergoes rapid decomposition. It is necessary for some time to add more organic material to avoid depletion of plant-food and to maintain the soil in good physical condition. Most people rely upon barnyard manure for this purpose. But barnyard manure cannot always be obtained even by the commercial gardener, and frequently not at all by the home gardener.

While animal manures are high in plant-food elements such as leaves, stems, lawn clippings, and the miscellaneous organic debris that occurs in every garden, this is the time of the year, these materials are a good source of organic matter and therefore should never be destroyed. It is a fine plan to have all such materials piled in some corner out of sight. If a little soil is mixed with them as they are piled they make an excellent fertilizer. The fertility of the garden can be maintained with no other source of organic matter, particularly if a small quantity of so-called commercial fertilizers are used during the growing season. The wise gardener will apply, as fertilizer to his garden, the leaves from the lawns and walks rather than consign them to the bonfire.

In order to obtain the greatest benefit from this organic material, it should be plowed or spaded in during the fall. This gives the materials an opportunity to decay and release the plant-food elements by planting time the following spring. While there are some exceptions, most soils will work up better in the spring if plowed or spaded in the fall. Preparing a fine, moist, firm seedbed in the spring even on heavy soils. In addition to these advantages, the land can be smoothed and leveled and planted earlier in the spring. This also often makes the difference between an early garden and a late one. Fall raking or plowing will pay well in soil fertility and in soil conditions, thus making the spring work easier.

Light, sandy soils that blow or gravelly soils that tend to run together do not respond favorably to fall plowing and consequently should be left until spring. However, the organic matter should be added in the fall.

The wise gardener will start now to make his 1934 garden. First he will gather all of the organic matter about his place on his garden plot, and then he will spread it in, leaving the ground rough. He knows this will pay him.

Home Health Club

Edited by Dr. David H. Reeder, Kansas City, Missouri

WAKE UP! Get in line for the big doughs. Don't you know that we are in for one of the best revolutions ever had by you?

WAKE UP! I have been hammering at the diet question for a third of a century. I have told you what, when and how to eat, but with a limited exception you have given a sleepy yawn and taken another nap.

WAKE UP! Meat is abundant just now but high in price. You have from habit and ancestral training, relied upon it for a large share of your diet, and now you must find and use a substitute, you don't know how. You have the substitutes all right, they are cheap, easily prepared, very appetizing and much more beautiful than the meat but your combination is wrong. Now, let me tell you a few easily remembered and easily applied facts about eating.

For the great majority of people it is useless to make elaborate lists of the various chemical elements of various foods, to tell of the calories, phosphates and calcium, etc.

What the majority of us want is to know about how many hundreds of grains, cabbage, potatoes and other common vegetables must be eaten to make up for the lack of meat and how to fix the same so arrange it that our stomachs won't episode or our sense of taste reject the combination. Well to begin with, you do not need to supply all of the necessary chemical elements required by the body at each and every meal. One meal may be much more palatable and the stomach much better able to care for it if certain elements are left out this time and put into the next meal.

If you arrange the meals properly you will find that your desire for tea and coffee will gradually disappear. Also, you will find your strength increasing while the amount you eat will decrease. Instead of fermenting food in the stomach you will have digestion, and when digestion occurs there will be no disagreeable gas that is so distressing to so many people. With the disappearing of the acid, it also disappears the acidity, and other health destroying conditions will be changed into natural digestive ferments, and you will wonder how you ever lived on the heterogeneous mixture that you formerly ate for food, and are so fundamental.

When you eat meat the natural conditions of the body are broken, butter and potatoes or other starchy foods. Acidic foods should never be eaten with starches. A combination of acid fruits or other acid like pickles, horseradish, etc. are prolific causes of fermentation and consequent gas. When you are using eggs you can also use at the same meal in combination any of the following: Milk, cream, vegetables, sweet fruits or other fruits, but no acid fruits if you include milk with the eggs. With milk and starches or grains left out the acid fruit, eggs and other articles named make good combinations. In using fresh vegetables the more you use in the nature of uncooked steak, the better your health will be, provided you masticate them well. Dessert is not necessary or desirable after a hearty meal as can be made from this list.

Radical changes are not necessary, desirable, but you can prepare satisfying and nourishing meals that will make sick people well and keep well people well without meat or white bread.

Tell me your stomach and food troubles, and I can solve the problem.

CLUB NOTES

DEAR DOCTOR: I am a woman of 36 years. I am and have been for many years a great sufferer from indigestion, going out three and four nights at a time without any sleep, and I get so that when about to doze off I jerk violently, and it frightens me so that I am again wide awake. When I can sleep my health is exceptionally good, every organ in my body seeming to work almost perfectly. Do you think a change of climate would be beneficial? I have been wondering if the rarified air of the mountainous country might not have a good effect. Perhaps some of the club members could give their experience in dealing with this trouble. I had in these of some remedies, that are passed about by the club, and that remains one of a simple remedy that gave me relief from heart trouble. I had a very fine physician told me to take a little salt in the palms of my hands, moisten it with water, and rub the soles of my feet thoroughly with it, then wash it off. I did them by doing this not more than five or six times it cured the trouble completely.

ANSWER: The cause of twitching or jerking it is this. There is a severe strain upon one of the muscles of the neck, a nervous tension sometimes caused by eye strain. When you begin to relax, the muscles in the neck, the lens, the eyes do not relax, and the strained muscles act spasmodically instead of relaxing gradually as other muscles do. You suffer from many of the ailments of special nature—piles, fissures, etc. often experience this trouble, although the jerking may be in the legs, arms or even the entire body. In addition to the special instructions which I have sent you in a private letter, you should consult a skilled oculist in regard to your eyes and then try a hot fumigation in which you use an infusion of job-a as described in your Home Health Club Book Volume 4. Use this at night just before retiring. A change of climate is sometimes very beneficial.

WHO'S HE A detective magazine article says it is impossible for any man to disappear without leaving a trace of his whereabouts. Well, what about Jack Cranney—South-ern Lumberman.

There isn't so much more di-verse business among the move-ment than among ordinary folks as there seems to be. The principal difference is that the ordinary folks don't make the front page with their domestic difficulties.

Elder Cranney Gives Talk At Benson Ward

Benson—Elder Priest A. E. Cran-ney was a visitor at the Benson Sunday school and at Primary conference held immediately after Sunday School on the 12th. Elder Cranney spoke in high praise of the splendid manner in which these activities are functioning for the education and the spiritual uplift of those who attend these organizations.

The recent voting in Benson and Riverside precincts gave bet-ter than 2 to 1 in favor of non-repeal of the eighteenth amend-ment.

The most agitating questions among the people of Benson are the outlook of the sugar beet in-dustry, and the payment of their taxes.

Mother nature is doing all she can to make our people happy in this beautiful weather. Farmers are taking advantage of this con-dition by doing fall plowing.

And we shall always be. When one source of income is knocked another opens. So let us all join in singing: 'Oh what is the use of re-peating. For where there's a will there's a way.' The sun may be shining tomorrow. Although it is being cloudy today. There is one thing we must keep in mind and that is, that if 33 or any other interesting con-nection will not give any relief. Many have resorted to this be-witching demon for relief, which troubles have overtaken them, and the results have been as was made clear in the Tramp's Story as fol-lows:

I used to meet in private a fellow hanger. And we would drink ourselves wretched. The thousands dollars clear. As easy a way to prosper as ever has been found.

Farmer began hauling sugar beets from the "Peepe File" Tues-day morning. This is a large job and it will take several days to accomplish the labor. However the good condition of the road and the number engaged in the work mean quick removal.

Secretary Office is strangely op-posed to appointing Democrats to office solely because they are Democrats. He wants men "burn-ing with zeal." We should say, off-hand, that any officeholder who is not burning with zeal must have something the matter with him.—Boston Transcript.

Unique in its theme, a fervid love story intermingling fantasy and reality in a romance which bridges two centuries and overcomes the barriers of time, "Berkeley Square" was produced at the Fox studios on the lavish scale which distinguished "Cavalcade."

Dutch Tabbot of Richmond was in Logan today and announced everything in readiness for the big fight to be staged at Preston, Idaho, on the evening of Thursday, November 23. The headline bout is a natural. It is between Kid Barger of Treasurant and Harold Hawkeswood of Lewiston.

These two boys have been hitting the ball in great fashion of late months and the fans all want to see them mix it to determine the better man.

Logan fight fans will be at the fight in large numbers, no doubt, as both the headliners have the following here.

The upward march of silver prices in itself is taken as a clear indication as to what leading financial interests expect. These advances would have been expected if the silver were appraised only as a commodity.

Olsen's Big Moment At Capitol Sat. My Lips Betray Captivating Film

It is rare that a motion picture presents pure comedy in all its elements. Yet "Olsen's Big Moment," the Fox Film with El Brendell in the principal role, that opens at the Capitol Theatre Saturday, with vaudeville is just such a picture.

The story concerns itself with a diligent janitor who is catapulted into a romance between an inmate and a beautiful young girl who is in love with someone else.

As though it were not enough Fox Film has seen fit to complement their choice of star and story with the engagement of Walter the innocent who is thrown into machinations entirely beyond his control.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND OBJECTIVES OF BUSINESS AND PROF. WOMEN'S CLUBS

Yearly programs for all Business and Professional Women's Clubs are made up from outlines sent to local chapters from National Headquarters. The purpose is to insure a program of progressive leadership and development for all of the 60,000 members of the National Federation.

As federation members become better informed on economic and social questions it is to be hoped that they will take the lead in demanding governmental action which will make possible not only their own fullest development but also the fullest development of every other individual. This growth and expansion is made possible through the Educational facilities of fourteen different departments, each presided over by a chairman in our National set-up with corresponding chairmen in each state and local organization.

To develop leadership and foster social enlightenment, we must become versed in economic affairs. What can we, as a women's organization, do toward the advance of humanitarianism and social justice.

Since women pay 48 per cent of the federal income tax, own 45 per cent of the wealth of the country and 13 million of them through industrial, commercial and professional pursuits help to earn money for the daily needs of America, every phase of economics is of vital interest to them.

Women are becoming increasingly interested in public affairs. This is true not only of business and professional women, but the woman whose sole interest is in the home. It is she who has the responsibility of handling the family budget efficiently and who will be glad if government expenses, which absorb a fifth of the family income, can be reduced so that funds can be diverted to the needs of family life.

For educational growth study is urgently needed. Through lectures, discussion groups, study courses, debates on phases of economic sociology, psychology, deterioration member will be stimulated to think constructively about their present problems first locally, then to include state and national and international efforts.

What has our State Federation done to further these ideals and objectives?

We have a unified program of Standards of Efficiency in every field of achievement in order to encourage us to add to our growth and development. We are developing leaders to guide in the civic betterment of the individual of the club of the community and the State.

The various committees of our clubs are striving to follow the standards as set for us by our State Program Chairman Mrs. Blanche C. Pittman.

Following is the State program of Standards of Efficiency. The Logan club is striving to reach the 100% score.

The first ward primary conference plan it gives private industry the right to manipulate the new deal, but general Johnson would have the privilege of cutting the cards.

Hence, such an investigation as the commission proposes would require the company to defend the reasonableness of the payments it is making for the operation of its far-flung business and also the reasonableness of the amount on which the company is claiming the right to a moderate return, as representing capital invested in the service of the public.

The statement from President Courtman came toward the close of a hearing on the government's case, which has been in progress before the commission at the state capitol since last Thursday.

Judge Courtman asked Colonel Hugh S. Smith, judge advocate general of the Ninth corps, army, at an Alta street residence and particularly of John D. Rice, assistant general of Utah, and his beliefs to be presented arguments to show that certain documentary evidence submitted before the commission was competent and therefore admissible in such proceedings as those just concluding. The documentary evidence to which Mr. Courtman referred was that general referred by the government from the federal trade commission report and the subsequent hearing.

Unwritten Law To be Plea Of Woman

DALLAS, Tex. — Texas justice today faced the task of prosecuting Mrs. L. W. Boone, 37 year old mother who followed the code of the old south, shooting to death her low rival, Mrs. Pearl Hall, 30, before her husband's eyes.

Heid in jail without bond on the charge of slaying the comely brunette widow, Mrs. Boone admitted killing Mrs. Hall before her husband's eyes. When a small child in their small apartment and then shooting her rival to death.

Officers investigating the dramatic shooting said Mrs. Boone indicated she would base her defense on the unwritten law that justifies slaying for the invasion of a home. That self defense might also be her plea was indicated when Mrs. Boone told investigators she thought Mrs. Hall was about to attack her.

The examining trial was set for Saturday before a justice of the peace. It was held improbable that the extreme penalty in Texas for murder, electrocution, would be imposed on the wife. Other possible penalties under Texas law are from two years to life imprisonment or a suspended sentence.

Before sending a bullet from an automatic pistol through Mrs. Hall's chest, Mrs. Boone awakened her husband to witness the execution.

In a statement to police the outraged wife admitted living the comely widow to the Boone apartment in the early morning hours.

During the automobile ride to her home Mrs. Boone said the widow, not recognizing her as Boone's wife, told of her associations with him during the last six months.

Taking her low rival into the bedroom, she smacked her husband. "Now tell him what you have been selling me," Mrs. Boone commanded.

"He knows all about us," Mrs. Hall cried.

As Boone started toward the bedroom, Mrs. Hall drew her .45 caliber automatic pistol and fired, killing her rival almost instantly.

State to Make Complete Survey of Power Rates

SALT LAKE—President E. E. Corffman of the public utilities commission of Utah, Wednesday announced a complete investigation of the rates now being charged by the Utah Power and Light company throughout the state of Utah will be made. Later in the day Geo. M. Gadsby, general manager of the power company, agreed with Mr. Corffman that evidence introduced by the United States government at a hearing concluded Wednesday before the commission constitutes a challenge to the power company. Mr. Gadsby promised full cooperation of the company in the conducting such an investigation as is indicated. The investigation may possibly be initiated as a part of the proceedings now before the commission, in which the United States army asked for a reduction of 10 per cent in the rates charged it for service at Fort Douglas, at an Alta street residence and at the army hangar at airport. Or, if that is found to be inadvisable, the investigation will be on motion of the commission itself. Will Go to Beals Such an investigation would necessarily go to the basic corporate structure of the power company. The legal basis for charges for rates by any publicly regulated utility is that the company should be able to earn sufficient funds to properly operate and maintain its plant, and also to

Turkey Graders Are Named For Utah 1933 Pools

Nearly 50 turkey producers and inspectors in Utah and Nevada successfully passed the federal turkey grading examination which concluded a two-day school of instruction held recently in Salt Lake. It is announced by E. L. Barrett, Utah federal state supervisor.

The school was held at the Utah Poultry Producers' Co-operative association poultry plant, 65 west Seventh south street, under auspices of the federal and state governments, the Utah Poultry association and the Northwestern Turkey Growers association.

Thomas W. Heitz, marketing specialist, United States department of agriculture, was in charge assisted by Herbert Beyers, general manager of the northwestern association, and Charles P. Rudd, poultry department manager for Utah Poultry.

The necessity for proper finishing, killing, dressing, grading and packing of turkeys was stressed at the school. The value of proper marketing preparation of birds is indicated by the fact that there is a difference of as much as 10 cents in the price per pound paid for the top and lower grades and a low grade bird might have been a top grade bird had it been properly finished and handled.

Producers should fatten their birds and not attempt to market them until the finishing process is completed. In killing great care should be exercised to avoid careless handling and bruises. Birds should be promptly cooled and all pin feathers removed.

Among those who passed the grading examination and will be given federal licenses and used in the grading of the Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey pools are:

St. Bell, Louis Owsley, Merrill Bushforth, Harry Harter, Arthur Holmgren, Earl Hutchings, all of Salt Lake; E. L. Anderson, Brigham city; E. L. Brown, Douglas Smith and L. A. Barrett, Ogden; Lee C. Chidester, Richfield; E. H. Elliott, Logan; Reed Giles, Tremonton; Floyd Harmar, Payson; Owen Hamilton, Riverton; H. V. Swenson and Harry Lewis, Provo; E. H. Stringfellow, Draper; Harry Tempest, Midvale; K. Jensen and Clinton Kjar, Manhi; N. R. Miller, Preston; M. R. Moulton, Nephi.

Professor Byron Alder and Carl Fritschknecht of the Utah State Agricultural college poultry department, will be licensed as supervising graders, and Lee Burge of Reno will serve as federal state supervisor for Nevada.

Jury Hears First Witness In Ogden At Murder Trial

OGDEN.—William Brooks, 29, an Ogden youth, is on trial in the second district court before Judge Eugene E. Pratt and a jury on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of George Hartley, 84, which resulted June 6. The aged man was found lying in his home, 147 Twenty seventh street, after the removal of his body by the undertakers, injuries discovered on his head led to an investigation which resulted in the arrest of William and Charles Brooks, brothers.

Charles Brooks also is facing a first degree murder charge, the brothers having separate trials. It is the contention of the state that Hartley was slain during the perpetration of a robbery. Watches which are said to have been in possession of Hartley were traced to Bill Lake and identified as those having been later in possession of the Brooks brothers.

The first witness examined at the trial was C. H. Hartley, a grandson of the victim. He testified that he called at the home of his grandfather between 8:30 and 9 p.m. on the night of June 6 and found him in a dying condition. At the outset of the trial, a point was brought out in that it was contended that Dr. B. W. Badson, Weber county physician, who was called to examine the body declined to name the cause of death.

District Atty. Wade M. Johnson is prosecuting the case and defense counsel are H. A. Schneiderberg, David J. Wilson and S. C. Powell. Members of the jury hearing the case are John Cook, David L. Mitchell, C. A. Bell, C. L. Miller, Mrs. Mary Drany, Murrel Gre, Peter A. Nielsen, Jont Jacobson, Charles Pincock, Joseph Anderson, Robert C. Carr and Frank J. Billings.

Winners of Turkey Contest Announced

Prize winners in the recent contest conducted by the Northwestern Turkey Growers' association to obtain appropriate names for each of three grades of turkeys marketed are announced by Herbert Beyers, association general manager.

Laurel Simmons, 16 year old Park City high school student, won first prize by submitting the best, registerable name for the first grade of turkeys. He will be given a $50 cash prize.

The $30 cash prize will go to Gilbert L. Stanton, advertising manager of the Dairyman's Co-operative Creamery of Boise Valley, at Caldwell, Idaho, for suggesting the best registerable name for the second grade, and Mrs. Elsie Schraft, of Austin, Colo. will be given the $20 prize for submitting the winning third grade name.

The winning names, selected from among some 2,000 submitted by residents of nearly a dozen states will not be inactive until after they are registered in the United States patent office. If for any reason any of the other names are used within six months by the northwestern association, this organization will pay the person submitting that name an amount equal to the prize for that respective grade. Mr. Beyers reports.

Several names selected by the judges as most appropriate were found not registerable and were therefore rejected under rules of the contest.

LOCAL NEWS

Around Town Today—

Martin Pond, retired Lewiston farmer, who has been laid up for several weeks, was sufficiently recovered today to be around town.

Deputy Recovers—

Miss Ruth Baer, the obliging deputy in the office of C. V. Moor, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, had so far recovered that she was taken to her home Monday.

Team Well Coached—

Observers of the Utah Aggies in action on Saturday, had plenty of praise for Coach Dick Romney for the splendid coached team he trotted out on the field to beat the Cougars.

Win Final Game—

With rather an erratic season, Logan Grizzlies finished up their last game in Salt Lake Friday afternoon by defeating the Granite High by the score of 13 to 7. Last season when the Grizzlies played this team for the state championship, Granite won by the score of 13 to 0. It was a well-earned revenge by Coach Burns Crookston and his youngsters to return home after the game with the honors tucked safely away in their scraps book.

Sunday at Home—

Miss Louie Richards of the seventh ward drove up from Provo on Friday with Prof. and Mrs. Morris (Rachel) Bankhead to attend the football game and spend the week end with her parents. Miss Richards is living with her aunt, Mrs. Elsie Champlin, and studying and playing at the B. Y. U. She says the Social Units at the B. Y. U. might just as well be called frats and sororities.

Makes Visit to Logan—

Miss Jane Bench of Idaho Falls, Idaho, spent a few days in Logan as guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Miller. She also attended the birthday dinner of her brother, E. H. Bench of College Ward.

Jury Functions—

Jurymen selected for the November term of court were on duty today. Amasa Hodges of Lewiston and W. J. Harrison of Cove, were among the outside jurymen to report for duty at 10 o'clock this morning.

Marriage Licenses—

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following couples: Paul Ray Parkinson, Lewiston and Violet Richens, Price; Walter Clarence Hansen, Butte and Vivian Corbridge, Logan; John Howard Fullmer, Menan, Idaho and Arminia Kite, Rigby, Idaho.

Academicians Garmandize

Members of the Utah Academy of Fine Arts lunched together at the Bluebird-on-the-hill last Saturday when the Grizzlies at which Prof. Alce Reynolds talked on the New York theatre and Prof. Morris read a paper on the history of landscape architecture. With these two lunched Maxine and Dean Gerrit De Yonz, Prof. Harrison Merrill and Prof. F. R. Arnold.

Our Vocabulary—

M. H. Hardy who keeps the Budge Clinic from going to the devil financially tells us he likes to attend the football game and our vocabulary. He thinks it all ways well chosen, and none too strong for our ideas, if people are interested in the game. He thinks college men and women love a succinct word, if it applies. Nothing like a word fitly spoken, whether at funerals or in the Cache American.

Prexy in Town—

E. E. Hendricks, president of the Cache county farm bureau, was transacting business in Logan Monday.

Operated Here—

Bron J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Smith, who was operated upon for appendicitis recently, is reported to be recovering from the operation.

Postpone Regular Meet—

The regular weekly meeting of the County commissioners will not be held until Thursday on account of a meeting in Salt Lake City which they have been called to attend. The meeting in the capital city is with the advisory committee of the state.

Armstrong Defeated—

University of Utah football team was defeated at Denver on Saturday by the Denver U. The score was 13 to 0. Naturally the students of both the B.Y.U. and the U.S.A.C. were glad to know that there was an aggregation in the Rocky Mountain conference that could topple the Big Grims crew coached by Ike Armstrong.

Logan Gets Preview Habit

Mae West, beloved of college men and New York police, comes to Logan, this Saturday night in "No Angel". Miss West's cousin her interview by the hundred and runs her biography in the Cosmopolitan. Her coming is one of the major events in the movie world of Logan and we prophesy that she will have as many admirers in proportion to Logan as she had in New York. There will be a hilarious audience at the preview after the dance next Saturday night. Perhaps mothers better go with daughters, it is so late, but mothers will have a good time too.

Poultryman Outlines Practices with shallow bodies, small pelvic regions, deformed backs and crooked breasts, it is advisable to handle all the birds when they are being housed and to eliminate the birds that are to be kept. The large mature laying birds should be placed in one pen, the medium birds in another and the smaller slow-developing birds in a pen by themselves. Most of the birds in the last group need a little more time to develop and gain in weight but those that have not started to lay by the time they are eight to nine months old should be disposed of. With the feed-costs rising as unfavorably as it is at the present time, poultrymen cannot afford to keep pullets that are handicapped in one way or another.

Pullets should be allowed to come into production normally. It is a mistake to start forcing them for production when the first few eggs are produced. Forcing will encourage the appearance of egg-eating disorders, such as inverted oviducts, commonly referred to as "blowouts." This trouble, however, may be due at least in part to a contaminated condition of the birds' which may overcome by feeding Epsom salts occasionally in a camp crumby mash at the rate of three-fourths of a pound per hundred pullets. Since pullets should be gaining in weight during the first few months of production, it is a good plan to mark and weigh representative birds each week or two to determine whether they are growing properly. Liberal amounts of grain should be fed each day; 12 to 14 pounds of grain for each 100 birds is usually recommended. About part of the feed that must not be overlooked after housing, is the green succulent feed the pullets eat. Liberal amounts of grain should be fed for each 100 birds is usually recommended. News Review of Current Events the World Over Morgenbau Made Acting Treasury Head, Woodin on Indefinite Leave—President on Relief and Employment—Soviet Recognition Negotiations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SOUND money advocates were rather dismayed though perhaps not surprised by the sudden shift of place in Washington. Woodin, still suffering from the throat affection that has troubled him all year, sought to resign, but President Roosevelt instead gave him an indefinite leave of absence. Dan McHenry, who had been acting as the President's representative, resigned as secretary of the treasury and Henry Morgenbau, Jr., was appointed to succeed him. This became official when the department during Mr. Woodin's absence. The inference drawn, and it is inescapable, is that now the treasury will be dominated by inflationary policies designed to raise prices for the benefit of the farmer.

Mr. Morgenbau, long a close friend and adviser of Mr. Roosevelt, is one of the former agricultural group that includes Prof. George F. Warren, co-author of the gold bug plan.

So far as known Mr. Morgenbau has never advocated currency inflation via the printing press. As in the case of the former agricultural administrator he has been more conservative than many farm leaders would have liked him to be. His main concern, however, is for agriculture and his associations are with men who have developed radical and inflationary ideas for meeting present conditions.

The new undersecretary is a farmer and a public publisher. He owns a large fruit and dairy farm in Dutchess county, New York, and is specialized in raising pure bred Holstein cattle and Red Mackintosh apples. He became interested in agriculture as a boy when he spent considerable time on ranches in the West. On graduation from a high school he attended the agricultural college at Cornell university, to equip himself for scientific farming. During the World War he served as lieutenant, junior grade, in the navy. His father was chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee during Wilson's first term and held numerous diplomatic posts, including ambassador to Turkey.

Mr. Acheson's retirement, according to observers in the National Capital, is likely to be followed by more long by the resignations of others not in accord with the gold bug scheme.

Mr. Woodin announced that he would go to Arizona in search of renewed health and that he would accept no salary from the government during his leave of absence. The belief is general that he never will return to his post.

GOVERNORS, mayors and large land administrators in related matters served in Washington to pledge assistance in the government's drive to put 4,000,000 persons back to work within a month, and President Roosevelt told them that relief of the needy must not be made a political football. Said he: "Your national government is not trying to gain advantage one way or the other out of the needs for hungry relief. It is trying to get an uplift on the part of every governor of the 48 states, and we expect the same spirit in the part of the mayors and relief administrators."

"We would like to have a relief work near ask a person needing assistance be Democrat, Republican, Socialist or anything else."

Mr. Roosevelt described his gigantic employment venture, which will be engineered by Harry I. Hopkins, relief administrator, as a "partnership between the United States and the nation's local governments in which all are expected to do their share."

means putting the money to good use," Mr. Roosevelt explained.

DETERMINED to give the monetary plan of Professors Warren and Rogers a full chance to work out, the President, it was stated authoritatively, will not change his policy at present. If in the first three weeks the program is stated authoritatively, will not change his policy at present. If in the first three weeks the program is stated authoritatively, will not change his policy at present.

The "committee for the nation," whose ideas are largely embodied in the present monetary program, now has a rival organization known as the "committee on monetary policy." It was formed by 20 business and industrial leaders of Chicago who endorse the stand recently taken by a group of mid-western university professors, Italy now announces it will participate as an observer merely.

GERMANY having taken itself out of the disarmament conference, Italy now announces it will participate as an observer merely. The fundamental condition for an increased volume of business is confidence in the dollar and in the national credit. A realistic and sane expectation of profit for individual enterprise, in industry, in trade, and in agriculture.

GEORGE W. NORRIS, the veteran senator from Nebraska, has had a higher price level in the past because of his determined advocacy of pure gold and business interests, but of late he is coming into the camp of the University of Illinois.

Senator Norris is presented annually to some American who has distinguished himself by contributions in the field of statesmanship, philanthropy or humanitarianism. Senator Norris was given the medal because of his work in the field of statesmanship for almost half a century.

With the earnest, not to say urgent, assistance of William Bullitt, special assistant secretary of state for Russian affairs, the controversial legislation up to recognition of the Soviet government by the United States proceeded in Washington.

W. C. Bullitt received the State Department by Undersecretary William Phillips, the negotiations went into another week. The expectation was that they would be concluded before the President left Washington for his Thanksgiving holiday in Georgia, but Mr. Bullitt said that while this was possible, because the matter was so complicated, a delay because President Roosevelt insisted on discussing with Senator M. Litvinov the latest proposals.

Senator H. D. Hatfield of West Virginia, one of the few Republican senators who has been bold enough to attack the NRA, also has come out strongly against the recognition of Soviet Russia, but rather vigorously he has the objection mainly on the ground that the Russian Communists are atheists.

"It is our trade with Russia to be financed by the American government. If so, what are they going to pay us with? Are they to pay us in goods? Then, that means displacement of so many Americans from present and future jobs. Are they to pay us with money obtained from exports to other nations? If so, then they displace us from our jobs."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT left the Capital for his Thanksgiving holiday at Warm Springs, Ga., and Ambassador Sumner Welles came from Havana to tell him personally about developments in Cuba.

Though many of President Grant's supporters are bitterly opposed to his withdrawal, Secretary of War William H. King of Utah has asked the State department to withdraw him from his post. It seems certain that the ambassador will remain there indefinitely.

GERMANY responded nobly to the demands of Chancellor Hitler for support of his foreign policy. Nearly forty-three and one half million persons, or 76 per cent of the electorate, voted to the "no" and in that vast number only a few more than two million voted "no" to the question submitted to the plebiscite.

"Do you approve the policy of your government and are you ready to recognize it as an expression of your own view and your own will and solemnly pledge yourself to it?" The voters elected 991 members of the new Reichstag, and all of them had been picked by Hitler. His name was not selected was permitted only on the ballots.

Nazi agents throughout the country worked hard to get out votes, and their success was extraordinary.

REPRESENTATIVE DICKEYN of New York and his house committee on immigration and naturalization has introduced legislation and began their investigation of alleged Nazi activities in the United States.

Putting Ballast Through a Laundry

THIS mammoth ballast laundry, the first of its kind ever placed in operation, is shown giving a bath to the ballast on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad near Pittsburgh. This machine dips down into the ballast to a depth of ten inches below the ties on both sides of the track and thoroughly cleans the stones, mechanically returning them to the ballast in the proper arrangement. The dirt that is taken from the ballast is stored in dump cars behind the cleaner, while at stations or on cuts, and it is dumped along the tracks when the cleaner is operating on a hill. The new machine can handle five miles of track in a single working day, and it cleans at the rate of 650 tons of stone in an hour. It might be thought that railroad road ballast must be cleaned regularly to give resilience and strength to the tracks, to eliminate dust on the trains, and to remove the riding qualities of the road bed.

BONERS

A smile is a widening of the face when pleased.

BONERS are actual humorous tid-bits found in examination papers, essays, etc. by teachers.

Socratic dialogue was speeches between two persons on a certain subject such as holiness, piety, love. One person does most of the talking and dominates the whole talk while the other person merely asks questions to what is said whether the answer is yes or no. The person who does not talk much is usually known as the Socratic slave. It is true and that he has said it, but he is talking about.

A mummy is one that has no education at all.

The International date line runs through the Pacific ocean to Greenwich, England, and causes day and night.

The word "don't" is a conjunction.

Salom Wilchcraft was a Dutch governor. He stamped about on his legs and said I will get you up New York.

The English did not like Napoleon because he had said that they were just a nation of shopkeepers and at a place called Waterloo they charged him over and over again until he had lost everything.

CHICK EVANS' IRON SHOTS

CHICK EVANS, who for a time wore the amateur crown, is famous for his iron play on the greens. He is a great putter. Evans had to depend a good deal on the accuracy of his shots to the pin. No matter what club he chose Chick's accuracy could place the ball within put-ting distance. Evans had a unique method of trying the shots and to devote himself painstakingly to it. With his white line cap as a marker, he would stand about ten yards away and hit balls with the dozen at 31. The majority would come to rest within a few feet of the hole. He would then ask Evans what he thought of his shot. When one remembers that Evans' great record was achieved without any great putting, luck, his play with the Irons stands out more clearly than ever.

THE USELESS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHO are the useless? If a bug gnawed And gave a false penny to a child That he would not have, it would be useless. He had not served that child. Or he himself, and not been recom- pensed!

There are no useless. If a man can find. And so he can—occasions to be kind.

No rich nor low Nor rich nor poor men know In life's great kingdom of the heart and mind.

Who are the useless? Only those who pass. And give no word, no thought, no look—away.

To other men Or other women then? Whatever brightens they win or lose.

These are the useless. But the much required. The very needed and the most de- sired.

Are those who meet The world and leave it sweet, The humble-hearted and the great? Or those who meet?

The back of this Persian lamb cape is draped into a hood effect. The cuffs serve also as purse and the hat completes the ensemble.

FISH DISHES

IN MANY places fish is so plentiful that it is the cheapest of food. Even where it is shipped in it should be used as freely as the purse will allow, for fish is easily digested and a most wholesome food.

There are so many fresh water lakes and streams that all one needs is a fishing line with a little patience to bring home a meal.

Jellied Fish

Cook two pounds of fish and re- move all the bones and skin. Chop fine and add slowly one-fourth cup- ful of the fish broth, one teaspoon- ful of salt, the juice of three lemon- orange, one tablespoonful of grated onion, two dozen blanched and chopped almonds and a dash of cay- enne. Add two tablespoonfuls of gelatin to one-fourth cupful of water and dissolve in the hot broth mix with the other ingredients and

THROUGH a WOMAN'S EYES

By JEAN NEWTON

THERE IS NOT ALWAYS a GARAGE

"BILL and Mildred should learn how to buy groceries. They should understand what to do when an article happens to break through the kitchen window, and when the water pipes freeze because some- body left the window open beside them on a January night; and how to check up on the gas meter, the tax collector, and the laundry. At a pinch they should learn to fix new linoleum in the bathroom, elim- inate a squeak in the family auto- mobile, repair the front door bell and cure the cat of melancholia."

This is part of a chapter on paren- tal and the training of children in a book by Walter F. Pringle, in which we find attacked the "red dingo" of our children by our mod- ern idea of extending their years of responsibility. I do not agree with everything the author says, but I feel the book is well worth pass- ing on to my readers for one rea- son; that is, it brings home to us the value of control over one's environment no matter what one's path in life may be. And in this age of specialization, that is a point that is too often overlooked.

A well-known lawyer I know boasted that though he had driven cars for fourteen years, he wouldn't know how to change a spark plug.

It is true that a Jack-of-all- trades is usually master of none. We cannot be expert at everything. And in this day when the education of children must, to be efficient, and to their best interests, be in terms

New Salem Is Restored as a Lincoln Shrine

NEW SALEM, the little town in Illinois where Abraham Lincoln lived for eight years and where he is buried, has been rebuilt as it was a hundred years ago and dedi- cated as a shrine to the mar- tyr. The new town was dedi- cated to the memory of the late President. Here is a view of the village as it now appears. The place has been made a state park.

Amazing Hamburg

The "stuffed" fish may be varied in many ways, adding to its flavor and making it more appetizing. The following is one that will be liked: Take one cupful of melted butter, one-half cupful each of rolled crum- bs and bread crumbs, salt, onion juice, pepper and two cup- fuls of chopped sour pickles. Stuff the fish, or in fillets, put a layer of stuffing between slices and bake. Garnish with pickled onions and parsley.

Mackerel Roe. Said the roe in acclimated wa- ter drain and dry, being care- ful not to break them. Season with salt, chopped parsley and onion juice. Flour well, dip in egg and stuff and fry in deep fat. Serve on a folded napkin with fried par- sley and slices of lemon for garnish. By Western Oceanic Trade.

Released a band and a score of sea- ping taxmen last life, offering you a fascinating adventure, a cruise around this harbor.

Ignore the boatman's chatter. What is there are 26 miles of wharves and quays, and cranes that will lift 250 tons, and 4,000 har- bor workers? Get all that later from the consul, if you must have your figures! Just now, look at that fleet of obsolete wind-jammers, their paintless sticks long naked of rigging, and black over an English sparrows' perch, and the great sailing ships that crowd the harbor. They are the city's pride, symbol of its power.

Progress, unfortunately, is not limited to the legitimate fields of science. The criminal elements being two jumps ahead of science is the conduct of their anti-social warfare.—Chicago Daily News.

Shipments From Far Lands.

Here in the channel now are miles of "dolphins," or clumps of pil- lars, which boats tie up to save wharf charges. They are mostly ramps and wrecks, whose cook has just dumped his scraps. The collar blends with the old city about them. You easily imagine that some giant boiler took a big broom and swept away enough harbor refuse to make room for these monsters.

Consider, for example, the amaz- ing Chile houses. Its high, front runs to a thin edge, like the front of some fantastic ship plow- ing through the harbor. Its top floor even has side galleries like prom- enade decks. No other modern structure anywhere resembles this enormous cube, the Kontorhaus. Sprinklered, rising in sheer ac- celeration above its neighbors. You do not expect such a house to be a "cloud-catcher," in Europe.

Traffic With All the World. These huge trade temples in them- selves add nothing to Hamburg's general character of a busy port. It is not the size that counts, but what goes on in them. The 6,000 ten- ton Chile houses, like workers who have no profit, are busy on the narrow, cobble streets, and do their part in Hamburg's ex- port. They have no other pur- pose but to handle the goods of the world. They have no other pur- pose but to handle the goods of the world. They have no other pur- pose but to handle the goods of the world.

Through four or five centuries Germany wrestled to deepen this harbor, digging the water, and berths for boats along its banks, deepening them as boats grew bigger. Today, no other port anywhere has more clever laborers, more vic- tories for the swift handling of ships, and the juggling, sorting, weighing, and dispatching of goods than Hamburg. It is the harbor that means a lot to Germany; for this world trade-port, with all its smoke and whistles, is the harbor that points out far and near years to the whole Republic. "Our destiny is in the water," is an old German saying.

Pet Superstitions of Famous Auto "Wizards"

If your friends poke fun at the rab- bit's foot you carry, and your diffi- culty for broken wheels, poor color, etc. do not feel abashed. Your pet super- stitions are as nothing compared with those of the men who risk their lives as drivers in automobile races. In all the sport world they are the most conspicuous, according to Al- fred Dayton of the New York Sun. Many of them but has his pet ritually, or talisman.

Harvey Oliver's cigar is possibly the best known lucky piece in this domain, and there are other cases without number. Johnny Hannon, for example, always wears a black shirt when driving. Joe Busso wears a red helmet. Eddie Putter- berg baby shoes on his front springs; Pete de Paolis fastened them to his steering wheel. Ora Hubery wears strong for green cars. He never finished out of the money" in one. Harry Olson, another old-timer, "al- ways" wears the track with a wom- an's stocking tied around his neck."

Do this for Your Child in TWO WEEKS

How to rid any boy or girl of sluggish- ness and laziness and build a big appetite. The trouble with children who will not eat is usual attacks. The symptoms are a tongue that always hangs out, swollen, poor color, dull eyes that are often a little heavy. No appetite, no ambition—even for play. Here, another old-timer, "al- ways" wears the track with a wom- an's stocking tied around his neck."

TROUBLES OF COPPER

The troubles of the government, copper producers and refiners have met in seeking to formulate a workable copper code, are indicative of the vast number of problems the industry always confronts.

No industry was hit harder by depression—none will have to overcome more unfavorable factors in fighting toward recovery. And no industry is so vital to the progress and development of many of our states

Whatever happens to the copper code, it should have indicated one thing to the residents of the mining states—that the most intricate care must be taken in formulating tax and legislative policies affecting mining, if the industry is again to be a great employer, purchaser and agent of progress.

Reduce Poultry Mortality

By reducing chick mortality New Jersey poultry farmers have demonstrated that sanitation is an effective weapon against parasites and disease.

The United States Department of Agriculture has been cooperating with state agencies in New Jersey and several other States in a 7-point program of parasite and disease control. Briefly these seven points are: (1) Hatch brooder chicks early; (2) keep the brooder houses clean; (3) utilize clean range or keep stock in close confinement; (4) separate old and young stock; (5) keep manure pits screened; (6) provide poultry with just above the dropping boards daily; (7) clean the dropping boards daily.

Poultry raising is an important farm enterprise in New Jersey. Poultry specialists in that State have worked with Federal specialists for more than 3 years, driving home to poultrymen the idea that it pays to "war on warms and diseases." In the New Jersey campaign particular emphasis has been placed on the first three points.

Results have proved the value of the program, according to the Department. In 1929 the average loss in the flocks of the 344 poultrymen who cooperated was 186 percent. These poultrymen, it is noted, were better than average and were willing to take pains to cut losses. By 1932 there were 60 flocks enrolled and losses had been cut on the average to 124 percent. This gain of more than 35 percent in the number of chicks saved represents a decrease of nearly 30 percent in the number of chicks that died in flocks

Ripening Method Improves Quality

Kieffer pears can be ripened at 70 degrees F. so that they will compare favorably with Bartlett pears in both flavor and texture. Reports the United States Department of Agriculture, Horticulturists who have been studying the effects of time of harvesting, time and temperature of ripening, and other factors on the quality of fruit of this variety find that ripening control of storage temperature is the principal factor in improving the quality.

Kieffer pears, which are widespread in the eastern and mountain States, have the advantage over many other varieties of being somewhat blight resistant and also producing high yields. They have the great disadvantage, however, of being inferior in quality. The practical application of the department's new findings may make this common variety more popular with consumers.

Several lots of Kieffer pears, grown at Beltsville, Md., were packed at different times and held at different temperatures in ripening rooms at the Arlington, Va. Experiment Farm. The stored pears from each experimental lot were tested for quality, both as fresh, and as canned fruit. The temperature at which the pears ripened seemed to be the factor that determined the quality of the fruit, whether eaten fresh or canned. Ripening at 60 degrees gave the best flavor and texture. The dessert quality of the pears ripened at this temperature was superior to that generally considered possible for Kieffer pears. The quality of those ripened at 70 degrees was about what is usually expected from fruits of this variety.

Pears ripened at 70 degrees did not develop as desirable texture as those ripened at 60 degrees. Temperatures above 70 degrees gave a progressively decrease in favor development and in softening. The fruit ripened at 55 degrees softened more slowly and was lower in quality than that ripened at 60 degrees, but it softened faster and was lighter in quality than that ripened at 70 degrees. Evidently, the horticulturists say, there is a decline in the ripening temperature above or below which Kieffer pears should not be ripened.

Pears ripened at 60 degrees were much better canned product than those ripened at higher or lower temperatures. The effect of ripening at the warm temperature cannot be offset by long periods of low-temperature storage. Fruit ripened at temperatures either 60 or 70 degrees and it also caused development of a pinkish discoloration.

Agronomist Gives Advice On Proper Winter Storage

Requirements for a good storage place for vegetables are varied, but they must conform to the needs of the particular vegetable that are to be stored, says Professor J. C. Hogenson, extension agronomist of the Utah State Agricultural College.

The places most frequently used for storage are: house cellars, out-door cellars, earth pits and basements. For successful vegetable storage place four important factors must be considered: 1. Temperature control. 2. Moisture control. 3. Ventilation. 4. Convenience.

Temperature control is the most important factor in good storage. Most persons guard against freezing temperatures only. As a result the more serious losses due to high temperatures are greater than those from freezing. Among these losses may be cited loss in weight and quality, due to growth and to other vital activities; the more rapid development of decay and mold; and the loss of crispness due to evaporation of water from the vegetables.

Pumpkins, pumpkins and sweet potatoes are the only vegetables which retain their quality in warm places. These varieties undergo rapid decay and the storage period is a brief one at best. Growth takes place in response to moderately high temperatures, and will not stored unless the temperature of the storage reaches 42 degrees F. Potatoes, onions, and root crops are best stored at temperatures between 35 and 41 degrees F.

Moisture control is also an important factor and can be regulated by proper ventilation. Root vegetables require relatively large amounts of moisture in the air of the storage. While onions will spoil rapidly if the humidity is high; consequently, these crops cannot be stored to the best advantage in the same room, although the temperature requirements are the same.

Carrots, beets, turnips and parsnips require more moisture in the air than do potatoes and cabbages. Cabbages require slightly more than potatoes; however, all of these crops may be stored in the same room if the relative humidity approaches saturation. In other words, if drops of moisture condense on the water pipes and the windows, chances are that these crops will keep fairly well.

As additional precautions in house cellars, beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips may be covered with moist sand. Potatoes may be piled on the floor and cabbages laid on shelves. All of these vegetables—except cabbages—keep best if placed in piles on an earth floor. For cases where vegetable rooms are provided, there should not be a concrete floor. Although potatoes and root crops require a moist atmosphere for best storage, they should not be wet. If moisture accumulates throughout the pile there is danger of serious losses from decay and mold, especially if the temperature is also above 41 degrees F. In such cases it is advisable to open the doors, windows and ventilators.

WHO WAS A BUM? The young spendthrift at college was broke. He was going to write to his father for money. This time
