Moultrie County Intersection Identification System

In conformance with the State approved procedure for establishing a Rural Reference System, the County has established a coordinate system, referenced from the South and West County lines. Moultrie County has placed a sign at every rural road intersection. Each section line (a section is normally one square mile) has been assigned a number in increments of 100. The southern-most road (Route 16) which runs east and west along the border of Shelby County is numbered 300N. The numbering continues north to the Piatt County line, ending with the number 2600N. Likewise, the western-most road (Route 128) which runs north and south along the borders of Shelby and Macon Counties is numbered 00E. The next section line road east of 00E is numbered 100E. The numbering continues east to the Coles and Douglas County lines, ending with the number 1800E.

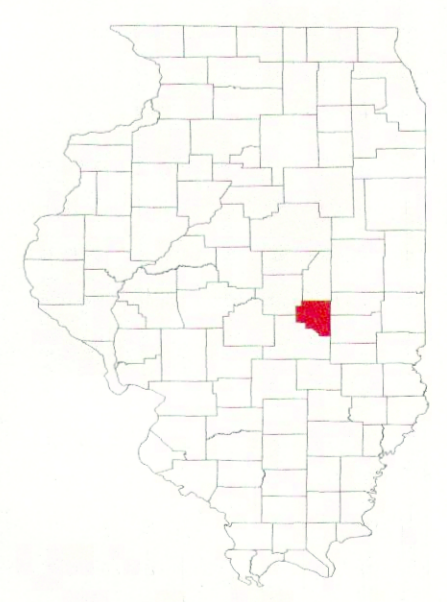

Roads that do not follow section lines have been assigned numbers relative to their distance from either the West or South base lines. For example, a road running North and South which is located nine and one-half sections East of 00E is designated 950N. Roads that deviate from straight East-West or North-South alignment have been assigned a number which generally represents the road's distance from its respective baseline.
