CDC Recommendations on Additional Covid-19 Vaccine

The CDC is recommending that moderately to severely immunocompromised people receive an additional dose of covid-19 vaccine.

This includes people who have:

- Been receiving active cancer treatment for tumors or cancers of the blood.
- Received an organ transplant and are taking medicine to suppress the immune system.
- Received a stem cell transplant within the last 2 years or are taking medicine to suppress the immune system.
- Moderate or severe primary immunodeficiency (such as DiGeorge syndrome, Wiskott-Aldrich syndrome).
- Advanced or untreated HIV infection.
- Active treatment with high-dose corticosteroids or other drugs that may suppress your immune response.

People should talk to their healthcare provider about their medical condition, and whether getting an additional dose is appropriate for them. The Red Cliff Health Center has begun identifying its patients that fit the above criteria to offer the additional dose.

Booster vaccines are not yet approved for the general public. We will notify the community if the recommendation changes.
