Community members:

It is with great sadness that the Red Cliff Community Health Center reports its second and third deaths related to COVID-19. Out of respect for the privacy of the individuals and their families, we will not be disclosing any additional information.

COVID-19 is in our community and likely being spread by individuals who don't even know they have it. The Red Cliff Community Health Center would like to remind everyone that we all take extra precautions during this time whether at home, in the community, or out doing tasks that require you to leave home.

The Red Cliff Community Health Center would like to remind everyone of the following precautions:

- Limit essential activities outside of the home
- Wear a face covering when around people who do not live in your home
- Avoid gatherings
- Wash your hands for at least 20 seconds

If we all continue to do our part, we can limit the spread of COVID-19 in our community.
