Take an at-home test:

- If you begin having COVID-19 symptoms like fever, sore throat, runny nose, or loss of taste or smell, or
- At least 5 days after you come into close contact with someone with COVID-19, or
- When you're going to gather with a group of people, especially those who are at risk of severe disease or may not be up to date on their COVID-19 vaccines.

What if you test Positive?

- A positive at-home test result means that the test found the virus, and you very likely have COVID-19.
- If you test positive, contact Red Cliff Community Health Center at 715-779-3700 or your primary care physician for further instructions.

What if you test Negative?

- A negative at-home test result means that the test did not find the virus, and you may have a lower risk of spreading COVID-19 to others.
- Check your test kit's instructions for specific next steps.
- If you test negative, you should test again within a few days with at least 24 hours between tests if you are still experiencing symptoms.
