NATOW is an inter-tribal consortium that was launched as a state wide initiative in 1994 by GLITC (Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council). The mission of NATOW is to promote tourism featuring Native American heritage and culture. Tourism provides an excellent tactic for Tribes to diversify their economies, while telling the true story concerning their history and culture. Tourism is also one of the ways that Tribes can be self-sufficient and boost their economies. NATOW is comprised of representatives from each Tribe, who converge bi-monthly to discuss its strategic tourism plan. NATOW has grown significantly over the last few years, becoming a recognized force in Wisconsin at gatherings, festivals, and events. All efforts are coordinated by their own Director, Chairperson, and the executive board members who report directly to the GLITC Board of Directors.

Native American Tourism Of Wisconsin is made up of 11 sovereign Tribal nations:

Bad River Ojibwe, Forest County Potawatomi, Ho Chunk, Lac Courte Oreilles Band of Ojibwe, Lac du Flambeau Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Menominee Nation, Mole Lake Sokaogon Chippewa, Oneida Nation, Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, St. Croix Band of Ojibwe, Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans.

Each Tribe is a sovereign nation that abides by its own Constitution.

Boozhoo Aaniin! (Hello!)

On behalf of the Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, welcome to Miskwaabekong (Red Cliff) known for its red cliffs along the shores of Gitchigami (Lake Superior), the greatest lake in the world. This guide will help all visitors to understand the structure, services, heritage, culture and beauty of Red Cliff and we hope it helps you experience a full and meaningful visit!

There are over 7,300 enrolled tribal members of the Red Cliff Tribe; population in Red Cliff continues to grow at a faster pace than other surrounding communities. The tribe continues to experience a steady growth in employment opportunities and constantly looks to expand services that represent the culture and heritage. The annual Pow Wow is held the first weekend in July and is the ideal opportunity to experience culture, food and social drumming and dancing.

Red Cliff's government programs are structured into five divisions: Health, Treaty Natural Resources, Human/Family Services, Public Works, and Protective Services. In addition, there are the Education, Early Childhood, Compliance, Planning and Administrative departments. These divisions and departments provide a wide array of services in the community and to visitors year-round.

Miskwaabekong is known as a fishing community. Commercial fishing is one of the largest economic drivers of the Red Cliff community. Fresh lake fish (including white fish, trout and walleye) is a substantial food staple for subsistence. There's nothing fishy about our fish - it's as fresh as you can get - yummy! We hope you try one of our delicious fresh fish dishes before heading back home!

We invite you to explore the stunning Frog Bay Tribal National Park located on the shores of Lake Superior with breathtaking views of the Apostle Islands. Frog Bay Park is the first ever Tribal National Park in the Nation! Enjoy a scenic nature hike in the primordial boreal forest before you reach the pristine sandy beach. Relax at the beach and soak up some sun while taking in views of five of the great Apostle Islands!

Stay and play at the Legendary Waters Resort and Casino, have a bite to eat in the Legends Sports Grill restaurant or the Legendary snack bar. Both the Buffalo Bay and Point Detour Campgrounds provide serene views of Lake Superior—enjoy a swim, campfire, fresh grilled fish and s'mores with the family!

There is something to do every season of the year in the Red Cliff area, from the very young to the elderly. Enjoy fishing, sailing, hiking, skiing, hunting, boating, camping—the list goes on and on. We hope you appreciate the natural beauty and serenity of our area as much as we do and that your visits to Red Cliff occur often - come back for another visit soon!

RED CLIFF BAND OF LAKE SUPERIOR CHIPPEWA

HISTORY Miskwaabekong

The names of the Anishinaabe are many: Ojibwe, Chipewyan, Ojibwa, Chippewa; all united by a shared history of clans, language and culture, all identify the thousands of politically autonomous bands and tribes which make the Chippewa Nation the largest tribe in North America. Most significant among these shared political and cultural backgrounds are the spiritual practices and values of the Grand Medicine Society and its teachings, which continue today.

Situated along the shores of the legendary waters of Lake Superior, the Red Cliff Reservation is located at the extreme northern-most point of Wisconsin, on what's now known as the Bayfield Peninsula and the Apostle Islands National Lakeshore. These lands and waters are renowned for their pristine environment, rugged waters, wilderness areas, and unique scenic beauty. The "People of the Big Water" or 'gi-chi-b-waa-tig' remain here today, at the hub or center of an historical, spiritual and cultural crossroads highly significant for the past 1,500 years but which extends back more than 4,000 years.

The inlet of Lake Superior known as Chequamegon Bay encompasses the spiritual center of Anishinaabe nations. The Anishinaabe were told by a prophet that a sacred shell would guide them on a generations-long journey moving West from the East Coast. The journey included seven stops and, ultimately, to the food that grows on the water, known as maa-no-min, or wild rice. The seventh and final stop was at the island called 'Moo-ning-wana-kawn-ing', which means the place of the yellow-flicker bird. Centuries later, this island was renamed "Madeline Island" in honor of an Anishinaabe woman Ikwesewe, wife of a French fur trader who established the first fort and settlement there in 1693.

Among the smallest of the Indian reservations in Wisconsin today, Red Cliff was originally part of the LaPointe Band, the primary village of the Great Buffalo, Head Chief of the Anishinaabe. The Great Buffalo is a historical tribal leader, most widely known for his role as peacemaker in the formation of the Treaty of 1854 which ceded the largest amount of land in the northern and western shores of Lake Superior. Prior to the Treaty of 1854 and despite several earlier treaties, the U.S. Government attempted to eliminate or remove all tribes to locations west of the Mississippi River with the passage of the Indian Removal Act, signed by President Jackson in 1830. The Indian Removal Act also preceded the Sandy Lake Tragedy of 1850 with the deaths of hundreds of tribal people in the deceptive 'death march' to northern Minnesota. Chief Buffalo, Chief Oshogo, along with other Clan Chiefs of the Grand Council challenged the past treaty agreements and accused the U.S. Government of carrying out a great deception towards the Ojibwe in earlier treaties signed.

The Red Cliff mission is "To promote, plan and provide for the health, welfare, education, environmental protection, cultural preservation and economic well-being of tribal members and to protect Treaty Rights now and in the future."

Red Cliff Hereditary Chief Robert Buffalo

Antoine Buffalo

At age 93, Great Buffalo and several band chiefs were delegated to begin the several months long journey to Washington, D.C., to meet with President Millard Fillmore. When they finally met, along with the words of the Grand Councils, they carried a Pa-wa-gon, or great pipe, which was smoked with the President. Following the meeting, the chiefs returned home with that pipe, now known as the "Buffalo Peace Pipe" which became a symbol of our nation's agreement, and today it is preserved and protected by the Red Cliff Tribe.

President Fillmore rescinded the Indian Removal orders and agreed that the Ojibwe would never be required to leave its homelands. The Treaty of 1854 would forever change the Anishinaabe as well as other tribes. With the establishment of homeland reservations, it marked the end of federal efforts to remove tribes onto lands west of the Mississippi River. The 'gi-chi-b-waa-tig' continues to follow these traditions and agreements, preserving our traditional knowledge, wisdom and sovereignty, and maintaining our cultural integrity for the benefit of future generations.

As the largest employer in Bayfield County, the Red Cliff Tribe is a significant partner for the economic prosperity of the region in sustainable economic and community development. Today, the tribe operates a full range of governmental, cultural and recreational opportunities, along with providing services and facilities for health, elders, tribal fisheries, family and human services, police, fire, conservation and EMS. The Legendary Waters Resort and Casino offers a lakeside resort/hotel, conference center, casino and marina facility providing a gateway to the Apostle Islands and waters of the Great Lakes.

Frog Bay Tribal National Park

Frog Bay Tribal National Park (FBTNP) is the first tribal national park in the United States! Red Cliff puts special emphasis on the sustainable management of natural resources both on the Reservation and in the Chippewa ceded territories, and for the overall protection of Lake Superior. FBTNP and the Frog Bay Conservation Management Area (CMA) celebrates the cultural importance of water and the spirituality that is associated with Lake Superior. The rare boreal forest ecotype, coastal wetlands and undeveloped sand beach is an unequaled wilderness experience on the Bayfield Peninsula. In total, FBTNP and CMA protects 300 acres, consisting of: a large tract of at-risk boreal forest, over a mile of riparian corridor, nearly 120 acres of wetlands and freshwater estuary habitat, and almost 4,000 feet of undeveloped Lake Superior shoreline.

This spectacular conservation parcel on Lake Superior, open for the peaceful enjoyment of all, was made possible through several efforts:

The original 89-acre parcel of former Red Cliff Reservation land was successfully reacquired in 2012 and a second, 86-acre private parcel was acquired in 2017. This 175 acre area comprises FBTNP and permanently protects a large tract of at-risk boreal forest, the lower estuary and mouth of Frog Creek, and restored former reservation lands back to tribal ownership.

To protect the headwaters of the Frog Creek watershed and preserve historical and cultural use of this place, in 2017, the Red Cliff Tribal Council formally adopted the Frog Creek Conservation Management Area (CMA), accessible only to tribal members. The 300-acre CMA consists of Frog Bay Tribal National Park, 40 acres of land that was already in tribal ownership, and 80 acres of repatriated Bayfield County forestry land.

The park is managed by Red Cliff's Treaty Natural Resources Division, who has carefully planned and installed the current infrastructure with respect to the sensitive habitats within the park – the 1.7 mile rustic trail system, interpretive signs, bridges, and comfort station.

Visitors can learn more about the ecology and cultural importance of the forest at Frog Bay through a series of interpretive signs located along the trail network. Stop, relax and enjoy! Let the wilderness replenish, and please enjoy Frog Bay with respect to the Red Cliff community and for the environment, and remember to “leave no trace” as you experience FBTNP.

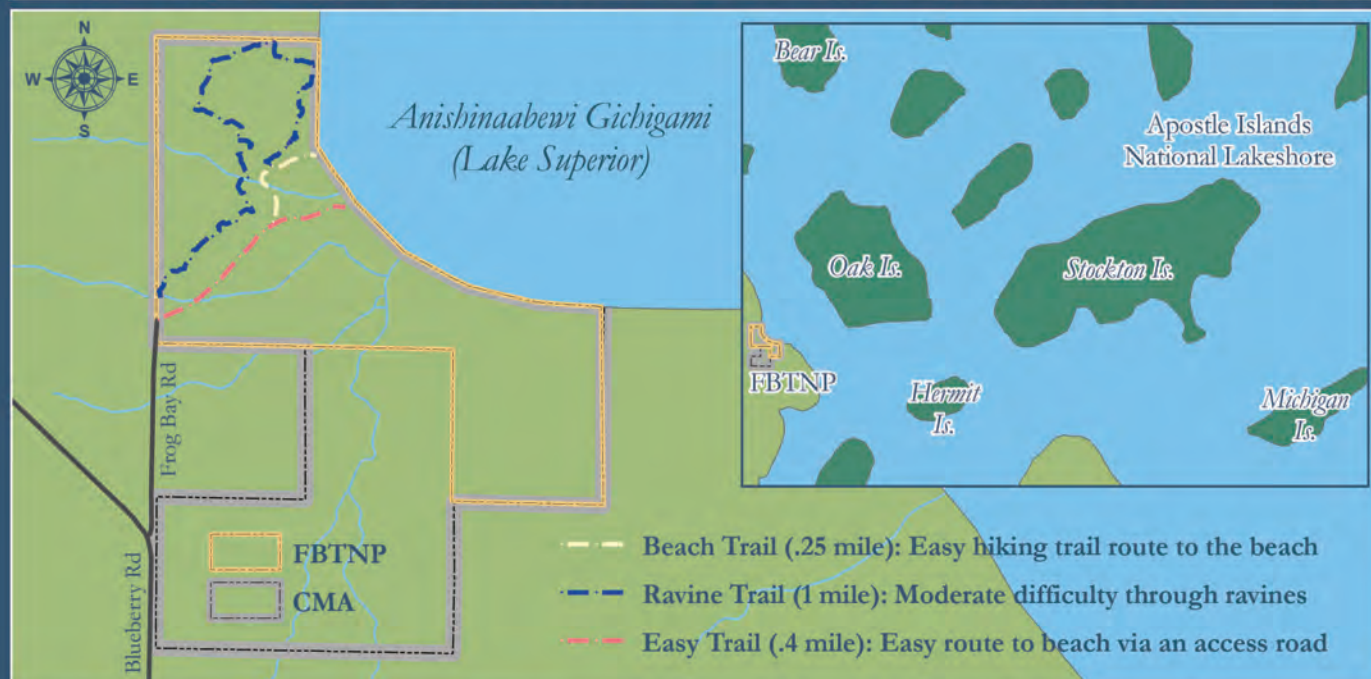

In 2019, Frog Bay Tribal National Park was awarded the Wisconsin Governor's Tourism Award for Stewardship! This award recognizes the park's impact on tourism and for its efforts to promote sustainability.

There are five Apostle Islands visible from Frog Bay Tribal National Park!

RED CLIFF COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER

Red Cliff began providing primary health care in 1994. Prior, community members requiring medical care would be driven by volunteers to their medical and dental appointments, located over 100 miles away. Since that first visit by their first doctor, Red Cliff has continued to grow and expand its services to the beautiful new 32,000 square feet building we're located in today.

The new Red Cliff Community Health Center, located on the Red Cliff Reservation, on State Highway 13, just three miles North of Bayfield, Wisconsin, opened its doors to the public June 3, 2014. The warm welcoming interior includes high vaulted ceilings, streaming sunlight and showcases the Ojibwe culture. Upon entering the building, visitors are welcomed by the inlaid pattern of fish and turtles, representing the rich history of the Lake Superior Ojibwe. You can find your way through the facility by following the Woodland Indian floral designs to the lobby and patient care areas. Once in the patient care hallway, large color photographic murals made by community member photos, representing the Four Hills of Life are highlighted throughout. The Four Hills of Life philosophy and teachings were developed by an Ojibwe elder and educator. The Four Hills of Life is an indigenous model and continuum of care which focuses on providing a full spectrum of care from a child's birth to an elder's last years.

The Red Cliff Community Health Center utilizes a Patient-Centered Medical Home health care delivery model. The foundation of a medical home is that it is patient centered, evidence based, comprehensive, coordinated, accessible and committed to quality and safety. It is also based on the same philosophies as our culture embraces, by treating the whole person, physically, emotionally, mentally and spiritually. The Health Center staff works to pair traditional Ojibwe knowledge with contemporary health care. Features within the health center support this new care model. The health care providers, care managers and support staff work as a team in an open space area where all team members can communicate and work together on patient care. This system of care has received national recognition for improvements that were made in the health outcomes of those we serve.

CULTURE (Izhitwaawin)

Cultural Expression at Red Cliff

Cultural expression in the arts has always been alive at Red Cliff and today it is experiencing a strong resurgence of interest as the next generation adds new ideas to the old. Whether in the traditional customs of hunting and fishing, gardening and wild food gathering, or in creative talents like manufacturing clothing and jewelry, or drawing and painting, writing, story-telling, poetry, and of course, song and dance—all these cultural talents provide a colorful window open to community life.

Historically the Ojibwe were known for their ability to defend themselves militarily, but they were also known as a fishing and ricing people, with villages located adjacent to large bodies of water. Today the seasons for harvesting these important foods still bracket the summer months as the people work to provide traditional year round sustenance. And as has been the case from the beginning, fishing and ricing are family-based activities carried out in networks of larger kin-groups. The classic fur-trading days are over, but winter's hunting and trapping are still found, and they, too, involve a good degree of artistic skill.

Eye-catching Ojibwe bead work and the manufacturing of birch bark canoes are generally well known as important parts of culture at Red Cliff and today the community has numerous beading and birchbark artists. Perhaps lesser known are those who make drums and flutes, as well as other items like the ancient cedar knocking sticks for harvesting wild rice, the popular hand carved ice-fishing decoys, and even the artistic pieces of birch bark bitings.

Ojibwe culture is a woodland culture and this is reflected in the peoples' artistic endeavors. They celebrate the world around them—their land, waters, forests, heavens, and the life within. The richness of this celebration comes out through their artistic expression. Feel free to take part, to move to the rhythm of the drum as you join the celebration.

TREATY NATURAL RESOURCES DIVISION

(TNR) Division remains the foundation of overseeing the fishing activities in Lake Superior today.

The Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa was one of the first tribal nations in the United States to develop a formal natural resource program. Court decisions which reaffirmed the Tribe's rights to commercial fishing activities in Lake Superior created a necessity in the early 1980's for Red Cliff to establish a program that oversaw fishing activities. Red Cliff also established a fish hatchery in 1987. Treaty harvest in the ceded territories and hatchery management was thus the impetus for the development of what is now known as the Treaty Natural Resources (TNR) Division and it remains the foundation of program activities to this day.

The TNR Division is dedicated to the preservation, protection, enhancement, and sustainable management of the Red Cliff Tribal Nation's natural resources in maintaining balance between healthy environment, economic goals, and future subsistence of all tribal members; ensuring that our future generations continue to enjoy the benefits of those places that are of significant historical, cultural, and environmental importance.

The primary goals and work activities of the TNR Division include:

- ✔ Collect and analyze biological data on Lake Superior fish, specifically lake herring, lake trout and lake whitefish, through annual stock assessments and sampling of the commercial catch.
- ✔ Administer tribal commercial and home-use fishing licenses while maintaining all associated data, records, and reports.
- ✔ Collect biological data pertaining to fish and wildlife residing on the Red Cliff Nation while working to protect, maintain, or enhance native populations.
- ✔ Collect physical, chemical, and biological data on the Red Cliff Nation necessary to implement management actions, such as watershed protection and restoration projects, in order to protect and improve native species diversity.

Provide qualified conservation enforcement for the natural resources of the Red Cliff Band of Lake Superior Chippewa.

Provide an educational environment to promote and inform the public about tribal natural resources.
