

Plant List

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, 30 percent of household water use is outside. Using native and adapted drought-tolerant plants in your landscape conserves water and reduces water pollution. Learn about beautiful, drought-tolerant plant species that you can incorporate into your landscaping.

Autumn Sage

Bearded Iris

Black-eyed Susan

Blackfoot Daisy

Bulbine

Cast Iron Plant

Crepe Myrtle

Dwarf Mondo Grass

Dwarf Yaupon Holly

Fall Aster

Giant Liriope

Goldenball Leadtree

Green Santolina

Gregg's Mistflower

Grey Cotoneaster

Grey Santolina

Gulf Muhly Grass

Holly Fern

Inland Sea Oats

Lantana

Maiden Grass

Mexican Feathergrass

Mugwort

Mystic Spires Salvia

Pink Skullcap

Red Yucca

Rock Rose

Henry Duelberg Sage

Square-Bud Primrose

Texas Sage

Turk's Cap

Texas Birds of Paradise

Woof Fern

Zexmenia

